Barrios on trial

Was it murder or self-defense?

BY D. C. HARVILL

The murder trial of Reggie Barrios, in which the court may have to define the limits of self defense, continues today after two days of testimony.

The Bay St. Louis Courthouse is the stage for the unveiling of the alcohol-soaked and violent story revolving around the death of a Clermont Harbor man.

Barrios, 22, of Lakeshore is charged with the stabbing death of 51-year-old Charles Fred Nixon of Clermont Harbor.

The story begins on Oct. 10, 1987 at a birthday party at the residence of Wayne Moore in Clermont Harbor attended by more than 100 young people.

According to prosecution witnesses William Paulk, 28, and Russell Jordon, 18, a lady and a man, "came through hollering and cussing."

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nixon, were looking for their two teen-age sons whom they had been informed were at the party.

Shane, the Nixon's 15-year-old son, testified that he was at the party and friends told him to hide and they would tell his parents he wasn't there.

Shane said he at first hid, but figured if his parents were there they already knew he was at the party, so he went out and saw his father running. His father, he said, was yelling to his mother to get Shane and get in the car.

Both Paulk and Jordon testified that after a confrontation between Diane Nixon and Barrios, Charles Nixon approached Barrios and the two fought. Nixon then took out his pocket knife and cut Barrios, and ran from the scene.

Barrios then ran to a barbeque pit and got a kitchen knife, yelling, "He cut me, I'll kill him," then chased after Nixon, according to Paulk.

Barrios caught Nixon and, in Paulk's words, "He reached around the old man and stuck him in the chest. The man stumbled, but kept running. Barrios ran after him.

"When the man got to his car Reggie knocked him down and stabbed him again. The man was just laying there. Some of Reggie's friends were trying to get the knife away from him. Reggie got loose and started stomping the man in the head."

All witnesses recalled that Nixon did not threaten Barrios or display any kind of weapon after the initial incident in which Barrios was stabbed. "He was just laying there."

According to Diane Nixon, someone said, "You've killed him," and Barrios said, "Yes, I killed the son of a bitch," and began kicking Nixon in the head.

Jordon said while Nixon was lying on the ground near his car Jordan saw Nixon's shoulder move and said, "He's still alive."

According to the witness, Barrios then came around the car and moved down toward Nixon. "He could have been trying to stab him, but I couldn't see."

Diane Nixon recounted that she and her husband had been drinking but were not intoxicated.

She told the court that upon learning that Barrios would be at the party, she and her husband had gone to their home to get a gun, but the pistol was rusty and they had no ammunition, so they left it home.

Witnesses claimed they had heard someone say either, "She has a gun," or "They have a gun."

No state witness recalled having seen a gun, or having heard shots.

Mrs. Nixon stated that if there had been a gun in the car her husband would not be dead today. When asked if she would have shot Barrios she replied, "Yes, I would have shot anyone to defend my husband or my children, and I wouldn't look back."

When asked if going to the party had been a mistake Mrs. Nixon replied, "Yes, a very costly mistake."

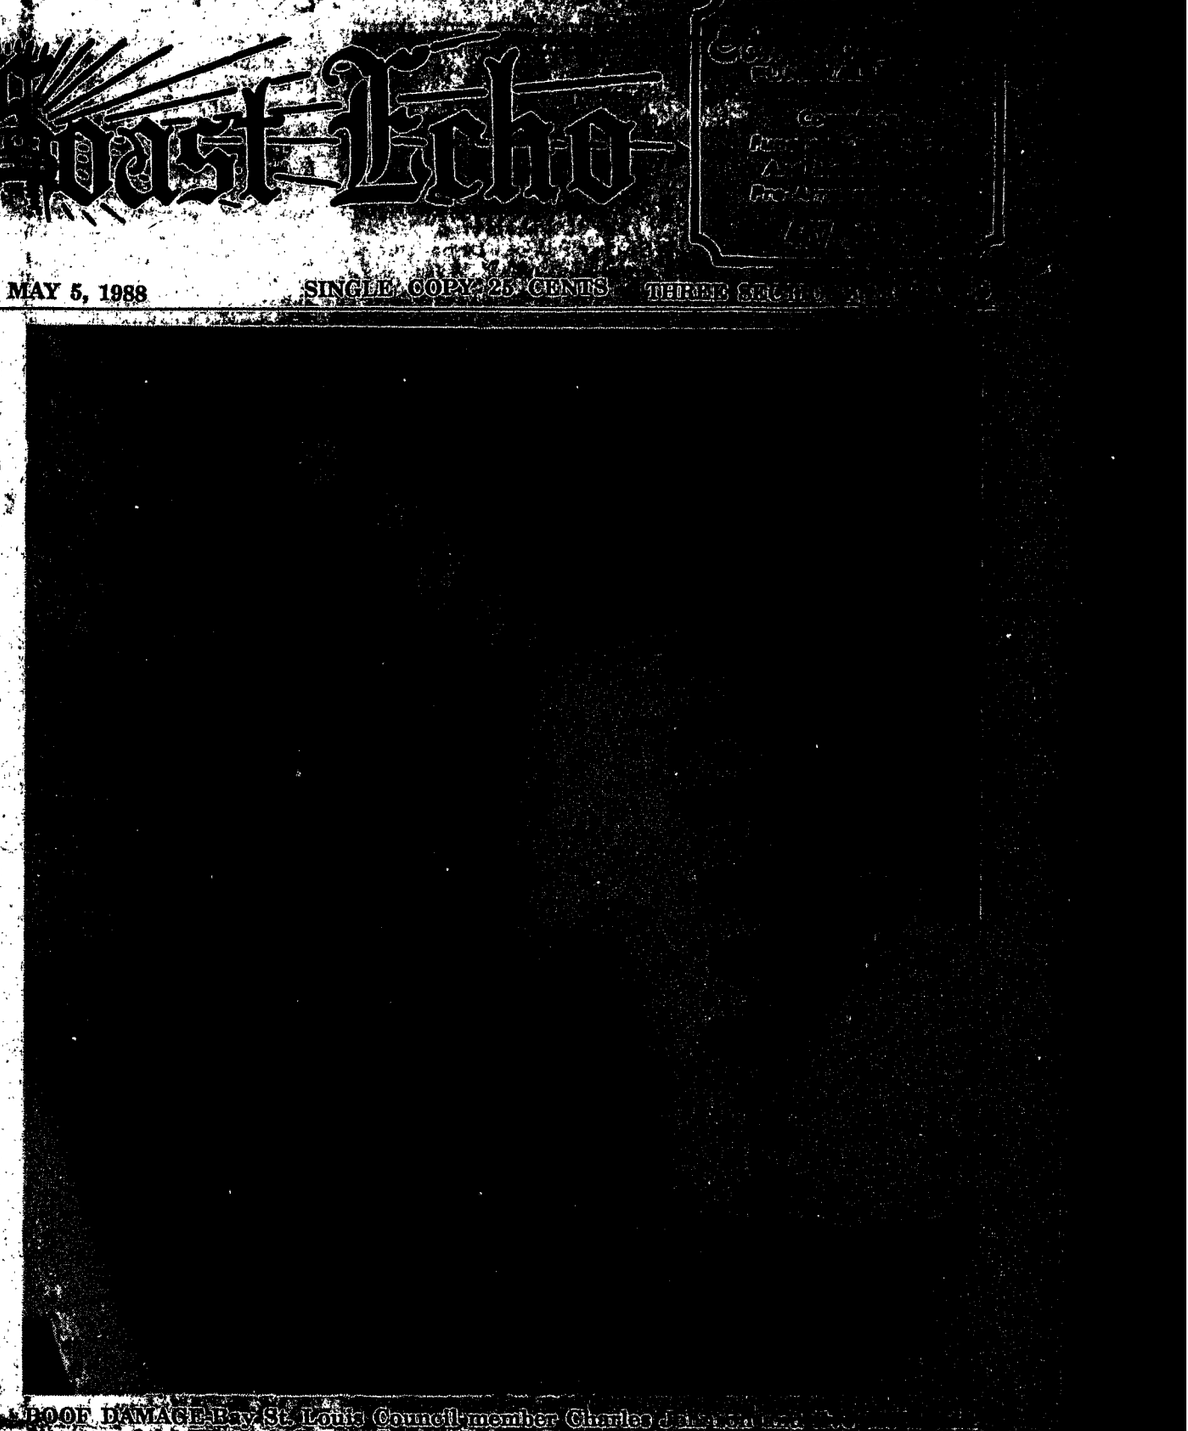

The state, represented by Assistant District Attorney Eddie Parsons, entered a steak knife and and a pocket knife as exhibits.

Ex-Bay St. Louis policeman Roy Shubert testified that he had taken the steak knife from Barrios' pants pocket at Hancock Medical Center the night of the incident.

Shubert also commented he had noticed Barrios appeared to have been stabbed in his lower left side.

The large pocket knife was

Senior Citizens compete for space

By D.C. HARVILL

An agency providing services to the county's senoir citizens is citing inadequacies at its current quarters to support its bid for space in a multi-purpose building proposed by the County.

A letter to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors outlining inconveniences to clients of the Hancock County Senior Citizen Center at its present home was approved by the directors of the Hancock County Human Resources Agency under whose auspices the center is operated.

The letter is intended to support the Center's efforts to be included in a Community Development Block Grant proposal being drawn up by the Board of Supervisors.

The grant, if received, will be used to construct a building to house county agencies which have displayed a need for the space based on the number of people who would be served and the average income of those people.

Among other agencies in contention for inclusion in the proposal are the County Health Department, the County Welfare Department, and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The Senior Citizen Center is currently housed in the city owned Valena C. Jones Building, which it shares with several other agencies including the Bay St. Louis Fire and Police Departments.

It is no secret that the City of Bay St. Louis is pressed for sufficient office space, so some doubt exist about the Center's future at Valena C. Jones.

According to Bay St. Louis Councilman Charles Johnson, the Senior Citizens may have to be relocated within the building to acommodate city agencies.

"They may not have the space they would like," Johnson said, "but they will always have a home. It's not like the city is about to turn the old people out onto the street."

Included in the list of inconveniences, some of them potentially hazardous, are:

--The building seems to be below ground level at the handicapped entrance. Rain water periodically floods the walkway, entrance hall, cafeteria, kitchen and central hall requiring the suspension of many center activities.

--Ceiling tile in the office area and the classrooms in the main building is falling. Some of the tiles have had to be removed for safety's sake, leaving holes in the ceiling.

--The day room and classrooms are inadequately air-conditioned. The rooms facing west get the full effect of the afternoon sun, and with uninsulated block walls, large, single glass windows and no overhang the heat becomes unbearable.

--The kitchen is improperly equipped to be certified for preparation of meals. Meals served at the center and through their Meals on Wheels program are presently shipped from Wiggins at 3 a.m. and aren't served until 11:30 a.m. leaving them less than appetizing.

--The only entrance accessible to the many clients who are partially crippled is the one that periodically floods.

--None of the rooms have enough electrical outlets for the operation of equipment. Some of the outlets are coming out of the walls.

--The clients must go outside to reach the restrooms which are accessed by the walkway that floods.

--The building is infested by termites.

The Senior Citizens program serves Hancock County residents over age 60 who need some assistance to lead lives as fully and independently as possible.

According to the letter, 90% of those served are below the poverty line and 30% are minority members.

Kiln cafe' has new look, new name, Cajun accent

BY DENA BISNETTE

The former Olde Rooster Cafe' in Kiln now has a new look; a new name; and a Cajun accent.

Now called Rooster's, a section of the building has been remodeled and a new emphasis has been placed on Cajun specialties.

The restaurant is the only one in Kiln and opened in July, 1982, in an old mechanic's shop building. Owners are Andy Lott and his wife, Noelie Lott, who is better known to friends and customers as Lee.

Rooster's is still part convenience store and gasoline station, but the Lotts hope their restaurant business will grow to the point that the groceries and gas can eventually be phased out completely.

About half of the old store section has been taken over by a deli area reminiscent of old neighborhood luncheon spots where customers sat in front of a counter and were served by people preparing food only a few feet away.

The old dining room section with its country decor is still open, and outdoor picnic tables are available in front of the restaurant for days when the weather is good.

The Lotts said they hope the changes will continue to attract the same sort of clientel they have had since opening, which consists of all different types of people.

"We have always had an unusual customer mix," Andy Lott said. "You can drive into our parking lot and see pulp wood and gravel trucks parked next to Mercedes Benz and Porsche automobiles."

Although many of the customers are not from the Kiln area, Andy Lott is a native. When he opened the restaurant six years ago, he did so with a dream to bring back the great food and warmth of the Cajun people to my hometown of Kiln."

"Although Cajun food is currently in vogue, the food is different from many of the dishes found elsewhere.

"There's more to Cajun cooking than throwing red pepper on everything," he said.

Lott is a graduate of [illegible] Louisiana where on-the-[illegible] as a chef was in the classical French style. He served a four and a half year apprenticeship under Chef Ferdinand Ocat, who was trained at Le Cordon Bleu, a famous cooking school in Paris, France.

Ocat was head chef at Chez Ocat, a four-star restaurant in Lake Charles, La., and had previously served as chef to the Savoy Hotel in London and to General Charles De Gaulle. Ocat also was one of only six chefs to be knighted by the queen of England.

Lott said he loved the classical French style of cooking for its beauty and creativity, but was introduced to the Cajun culture and its food by his wife's family.

He was particularly influenced in cooking by his grandmother, who was from Breaux, La., a town located in the heart of Louisiana's Cajun country.

"I love the Cajun food and [illegible] but you have to [illegible]" Lott said.

Man arrested in disturbance confesses to 1978 murder

BY DENA BISNETTE

A man who confessed his part in a 1978 murder to a Hancock County sheriff's deputy has been extradited to Illinois.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Bill Allen Deml, 31, who told authorities he had no permanent address, was arrested Saturday at the Gulf station near Interstate 10 in Diamondhead on charges of disturbing the peace.

Deputy Nathan "Corky" Hoda, who was assisted in the arrest by a Gulf Coast Security officer, brought Deml to the Hancock County Jail in Bay St. Louis after finding he was wanted by Texas authorities on a parole violation, Peterson said.

During the ride to the jail, Deml indicated he wanted to talk to Hoda about a 1978 crime in Aurora, Ill.

The sheriff said Hoda advised the suspect about his rights, then Deml admitted stabbing and killing a man during a robbery.

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department obtained a taped confession from Deml, who gave another statement Monday to two detectives from Aurora, Ill.

Peterson said extradition procedures were immediately started and that Deml left Hancock County Wednesday with the two officers from Aurora.

"The man said he'd had it on his chest for 10 years and just wanted to get it off his chest," Peterson stated.

Investigator Glen Strong and Hoda were in charge of the local investigation.

Coastwide beach cleanup set for May 14

More than 600 volunteers are expected to take to the beaches and roadsides of Jackson, Harrison and Hancock counties in a coastwide cleanup from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturday, May 14.

A Hancock County task force was formulated with Ellis Cuevas as chairman at a Chamber of Commerce called meeting Wednesday, according to Rick Eagan, chamber president.

The areas to be covered in Hancock County will be the beachfront from Bayou Cadet to the mouth of the Jourdan River.

Plans are also made for collections in several populated waterfront areas.

Cuevas stated, "In February 1986, on a Clean Our Beach Day, even with rain, over 400 persons participated. It is hoped there will be as many or even more with this clean-up effort."

Gulf Coast Waste will participate in the pickup of the beach trash collections, according to Montjoy, company president.

Persons interested in participaing as a group or organization may contact Cuevas at 467-5474 or Libby Milner, chamber executive director at 467-9048.

The six Harrison County Chambers of Commerce and a tri-county marine litter task force are staging the inland and waterfront cleanup as part of a 'Don't Fling This Spring; Take a Stride for Pride' campaign to increase public awareness of the destruction caused by litter on land and water.

The task force, organized by representatives of the Bureau of Mari[illegible] Resources (BMR), the Gulf Islands National Seashore (GINS) and the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium, is trageting Round, Petit Bois and Deer Islands as well as other waterfront areas in the three coastal counties. The task force is an outgrowth of a 1987 beach cleanup organized by Gail Bishop, GINS, and Jim Franks and Dianne Hunt, BMR.

Working with the task force and the Biloxi, d'Iberville, Orange Grove, Gulfport, Long Beach and Pass Christian Chambers of Commerce is Harrison County's representative Connie Rockco, beautification coordinator.

Volunteers organized through the chambers will be picking up litter on county roads, highways, sections of the sand beach and Back Bay.

"We live in a very fertile area for finfish, shellfish, birdlife and marine mammals such as dolphins," Bishop said.

"This area, the entire Gulf of Mexico, faces a bigger problem with marine litter because we have such abundant marine resources. The focus of the cleanup is for people to be aware of the problem and the fact that we must be responsible for these resources," she said.

Volunteers at waterfront areas will fill out data cards to document types of materials collected. Further assistance in documentation is being provided by BFI Waste Systems which will weigh trash before disposal. Franks noted that recording the kinds and amounts of trash picked up is a major step in gathering information necessary for determining sources and working on long-term solutions.

"We are also asking businesses to clean up their storefront areas and school children their school yards," Ms. Rockco said.

"Litter affects us all on a daily basis. It affects the sense of pride and ownership our citizens feel about their community and affects job opportunities by creating an unattractive environment for tourists and prospective business and industry."

In addition to Gulf Coast Waste in Hancock County, business contributing materials or equipment for the May 14 cleanup include BFI, Charta Inc., Coca-Cola, Pepsi, Prime Time, and Waste Management. City and county school systems are assisting with distribution of information for the anti-litter campaign.

Support has also been provided by Harrison County supervisors, Bobby Eleuterius, president; C. T. Switzer, vice president; Frank LaRosa, Philip Allen and Eddie Moffatt; Dr. Richard Leard, BMR director; Jerry Eubanks, GINS superintendent; and Dr. James I. Jones, Sea Grant director.

In addition to Cuevas, other marine litter cleanup chairmen include Ms. Bishop, Franks and Ms. Hunt; Sharon Walker, Sea Grant; Dave Ruple, Audubon Society; Annie Mai Jamison, Pascagoula Keep America Beautiful; Walter Aycock, Friends of the Island; Tom Boone, Jackson County Campus, Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College; David Taylor, Gulf Regional Planning Commission; Anita Packen, Keesler, Girl Scouts; Suzette Burkhark, Gulfport, Girl Scouts; and Joyce Roberts, Bayou View Junior High.

Chairmen for the chamber effort are Biloxi—Billy Thornton, Mississippi Power Company; d'Iberville—Joyce Bacile, Rainbow Realty; Orange Grove—Gina Sprayberry, Orange Grove; Gulfport—Earline Sawyer, Sawyer Realty; Long Beach—Pat Case, Letter Limb, president of Long Beach Chamber, and Joanna Hudson; Pass Christian—Peter McCarty, Wooden Arts, and Otis Trepaznier.

To join the cleanup effort, call Jim Franks, 864-4602; David Taylor, 864-1167; Connie Rockco, 392-9686; Tom Boone, 872-1610; Annie Mai Jamison, 762-8442; or Ellis Cuevas, 467-5474.

Mrs. Nixon said her husband carried the knife at all times.

Hancock Sheriff's Deputy Albert Biehl stated when he arrived at the hospital he found Barrios wheeling about in a wheelchair in the hallway attended by several friends. He was angry and complaining about not being treated.

The state's final witness was Dr. John D. Rutherford III of Bay St. Louis, the pathologist who examined Nixon's body.

Rutherford detailed the wounds he found on Nixon, describing the width, depth and entry angle of each.

Rutherford testified that six wounds appeared on the body, and three non-lethal cuts or tears were located on the head. There was an abrasion on the top of Nixon's head.

In his professional opinion, Dr. Rutherford stated that only one of the wounds could have caused Nixon's immediate life threatening condition. That wound entered the left upper chest and pierced the heart all the way through.

Nixon bled to death while doctors tried to repair the damage to his heart, according to Rutherford.

In Rutherford's opinion the steak knife could have inflicted the wounds, including the fatal one, to Nixon's body.

After Rutherford stepped down, defense attorney Nicholas Haas moved that the charges against Barrios be changed from murder to manslaughter because it had already been established that Barrios had acted in self defense or passion.

Parsons said Barrios had overstepped the bounds of self-defense by chasing Nixon down, stabbing him repeatedly, and kicking him in the head.

Judge Kosta Vlahos decided there was enough evidence to allow the jury to decide whether Barrios acted in self-defense.

Haas had deferred the defense's opening statement statement until Wednesday.

He stated the defense's objective is to show that the Nixons had arrived at the party with "fire in their eyes, they caused a disturbance, and they struck the first blow."

"...Barrios had only one thing in mind—to defend himself. Given that Barrios had reason to believe the Nixons had a gun and that Mr. Nixon was going to the car to get it, Barrios was justified in preventing Nixon from reaching the car," Haas stated.

Defense witness Steven Shiyou said that Mrs. Nixon had arrive at the party yelling, "I want my kids," and also, "Where's Barrios?"

People told her to quiet down and they would help her find her kids, Shiyou added.

Shiyou said he heard someone yelling "gun" and he ran to his car. When he got to his car he saw Nixon lying in the road.

Shiyou said he tried to leave but Mrs. Nixon's car had him blocked.

Shiyou said Mrs. Nixon tried to pull away in her car.

"Someone was trying to get him (Nixon) in the car, beating on the car and yelling, 'Stop, we want to put him in.'"

"When she stopped they put him in and she drove out," Shiyou stated.

Shiyou said the Nixons had always given Barrios 'a hard time,' and they had exchange words before.

Hugh Shiyou, Steven's brother, when asked about Nixon's reputation for violence stated that it was, "Bad."

Christian Vizzinni who was on a balcony of the Moore residence claimed under oath to have heard banging sounds and a gunshot after Nixon was out of his sight.

The trial is scheduled to resume at 9:30 a.m. Thursday with additional testimony from defense witnesses.

DINNER RESCHEDULED

A spaghetti dinner by the Theodore S. Price Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 3253 Auxiliary has been rescheduled to Saturday, May 14, 5 to 8 p.m.

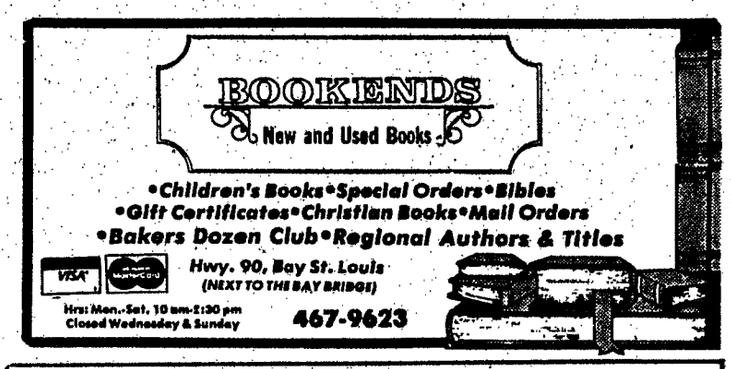

Dinners are $3 donation each, take-outs available. Tickets may be obtained at the post home on Third Street or call Lucille Boudreaux at 467-4974, or Tetulah Oliver at 467-3780. The date was changed to avoid a conflict with Mother's Day.

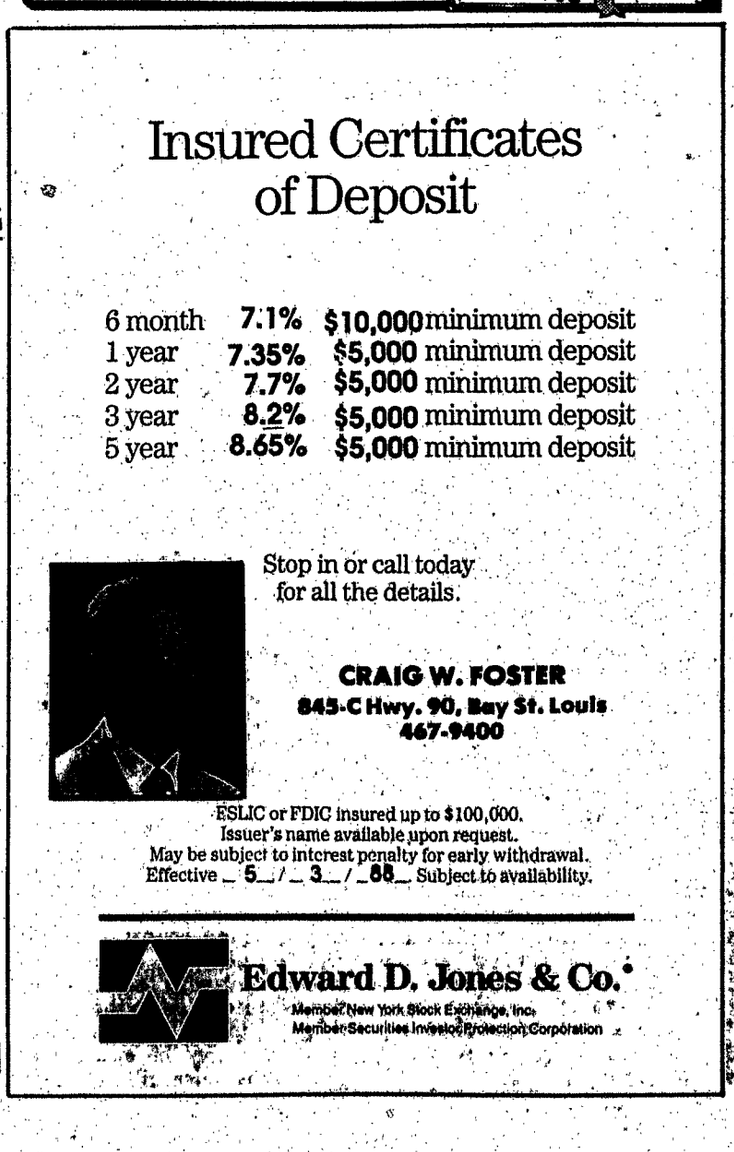

Friday is the last day for candidates to qualify in Waveland's May 17 special election for aldermen in Ward Three and Ward Four.

Qualifying petitions may be picked up from the city clerk's office in city hall and must be returned by 4 p.m. Friday, according to City Clerk Arcelyn Dastugue.

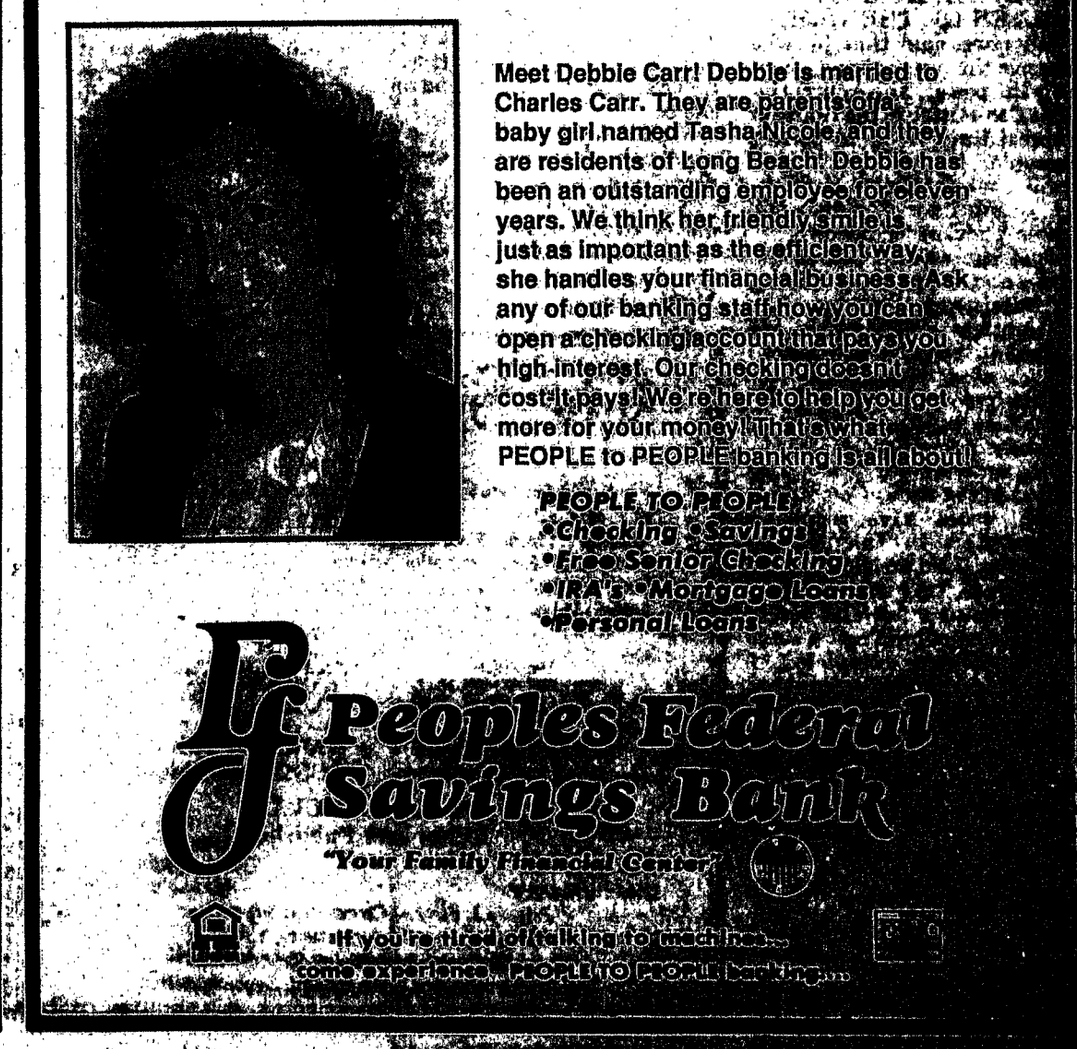

Quotables by Cuevas

There will be many residents traveling this weekend since Sunday is Mother's Day.

Our highways will have more traffic and this will mean it will be necessary for motorists to be extremely careful while traveling.

We wish all mothers a very happy Mother's Day.

There are several activities which will be happening in the area this weekend.

One will be a Hancock County Riding Club and Picayune Riding Club sponsored Quarter Horse Show in Lakeshore on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Charles Russ, president of the Hancock Club said the show is free to spectators, and Hancock County has youths who are rated in the top ten in the nation who will be competing.

The event will be held at Ladner's Arena, Lakeshore Road, 4.8 miles from US-90.

Some of the top quarter horses in the nation from eight area states will be in the competition.

There will be pole bending, barrel racing, team roping, heading and heeling, team penning, and other types of events.

Action will begin 9 a.m. on Friday with some classes and speed events in the afternoon, cattle classes late afternoon Friday and at 8 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Team penning is set for 7 p.m. Friday, so there will be three days of activities.

Persons wanting further information may call Russ at 533-7031.

Another event set for Saturday will be the Hancock County Humane Society's membership drive.

Members of the local organization will be at K mart, Jitney Jungle and National Supermarket seeking memberships at $5 each.

Items for the organization's flea market will also be collected at the Jitney Jungle location.

On Saturday, May 14 the Humane Society will be collecting for the flea market and signing memberships at the Diamondhead Super Market.

The Humane Society over the years has played an important role in Hancock County in animal control.

We, as well as the organization's members, realize that the job is not completed and has to be continually addressed.

We are hoping there will be a record number of memberships signed over the next two weekends.

On Saturday across the nation ERA Real Estate representatives will be collecting for Muscular Dystrophy.

Staff members of BayShore Realty will be collecting in the Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock County areas, according to Herb Dubuisson.

Last year ERA representatives collected some $800,000 and are setting a goal of $1 million this year.

We are hoping everyone will be generous and help in any way they can on this important fund drive.

One day the mystery of Muscular Dystrophy may be solved, and the crippling of our youngsters will no longer be.

RULES OF THE GAME

It's often said that he who controls the purse strings, controls the power. The Appropriations Committee in the House of Representatives is a perfect example. However, I would argue that the Rules Committee, where I serve, pulls some power punches of its own.

Just last week, I put on the gloves and stepped into the ring for Mississippi. We won.

Countless amendments are offered to existing legislation. My job as a representative of Mississippi is to look out for items that could hurt our State. Recently I found one.

An amendment was presented to the Rules Committee which would have reopened competition in the Navy's DDG-51 guided missle destroyer program. This was an effort to undermine a fair and equitable process of bidding—a competition already completed. I can understand other shipyards wanting to get involved, but at this juncture it's too late. I told my fellow Congressmen that the Super Bowl was over and that I would not allow it to be replayed at the expense of the workers and management at Ingalls shipyard. They apparently got the messge.

I asked that the amendment be made "not in order." Our Committee voted to do just that—in effect throwing out the proposal before it could even be considered.

This is not a normal way of doing business. As a matter of fact, it's a legislative tactic that's seldom used, but I had no choice.

While fighting back isn't always the best strategy, sometimes it is. In this case it was.

So, for now I will pack my gloves away, but I'll keep them in my locker, just in case someone else takes another swipe at Mississippi.

Dear Sir,

I would again like to commend everybody who made the 'Second Annual Salute to Industry/Business' a great success.

However, sometimes in the haste of trying to remember all of those responsible one forgets to recognize the most obvious.

The sponsors of the special tabloid in your paper played an important role in getting the message to the public.

I would like to personally recognize those institutions that made the tabloid possible, and they are Peoples Federal Savings Bank, Hancock Bank, Mississippi Power Company and Coast Electric Power Association.

The Port and Harbor Commission and I deeply appreciate your contribution to our annual salute to business and industry.

Report from the Senate

By SEN. GENE TAYLOR

The nearly 300 pieces of the state budget puzzle fell into place last week when the two critical pieces—the pay increases for teachers and for state employees—were locked in.

The teacher pay increase plan passed the Senate on a unanimous vote and with few dissenting votes in the House of Representatives. The increase for state employees passed unanimously in both houses.

Public school teachers' salaries will be boosted to near the Southeastern average on Dec. 15 of this year. The average increase will be $3,802 for a full year, meaning the average for the 1988-89 school year will be $2,114.

The bill calls for teachres to receive a $2,000 across-the-board raise with additional dollars for each year of experience and educational level.

The bill also increases the salaries of assistant reading instructors to $6,100; stabilizes kindergarten funding by placing it under the Minimum Program Foundation which funds grades one through 12; authorizes the designing of a group health insurance plan for all school district employees; provides for paperwork reduction by teachers; and creates an Education Reserve Fund in which excess state general fund revenues would be placed during the next fiscal year (FY89) for expenditure on education in FY90.

I think that this bill shows that the Mississippi Legislature is committed to improving education. The bill is very close to the one that the Senate originally passed, and I believe it shows a responsible attitude by funding education to the fullest extent possible without placing additional tax burdens on our citizens.

The state employees pay raise, which amounts to $15 million from the state's general fund, is also very close to the original Senate bill. It funds the "Variable Compensation Plan," granting raises to those approximately 22,000 state employees whose salaries are out of line with those in the private sector or in comparable governmental jobs.

It further gives our minimum wage employees an $81 per month raise. We feel it was important to recognize our state employees' needs and the good job they are also doing.

Agreement on these two issues paved the way for the two houses to quickly resolve the difference on the other bills funding state agencies and programs.

It appears at this point that we will be able to give substantial funding increaes to our junior colleges and universities which have suffered under drastic budget cuts in recent years and, hopefully, fund mental health to provide means to care for those patients awaiting admittance to state mental hospitals.'

Other bills which won final approval during the week included:

—increase sheriff salaries by 20 percent.

—create the Mississippi Marketing of Agricultural Products and Industry Program to conduct national and international market research to identify trade and investment opportunities and to provide special assistance to Mississippi's agricultural producers and marketers.

The legislature worked through the weekend in hopes of coming to agreement on all the bills in question in hopes that we will be able to conclude our business and adjourn on schedule this week.

I value your comments and would be glad to hear from you at any time. You may write to me at the Mississippi State Senate, P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, Mississippi 39205 or call me at 359-3770.

News from the Capitol City

By Kevin Jones

The legislature didn't vote on many bills last week, but the votes it took were big ones. Teachers got most of the pay raise they were asking for during the next to the last week of the regular session of the 1988 legislature. And while state employees didn't net anything close to the $117.5 million allocated to teachers, they were awarded $30 million in extra pay.

Raising public school teacher pay the Southeastern average was one of the principal planks in Gov. Ray Mabus' election campaign, and counts as a major victory for the governor.

Mississippi teachers' average salary now is $20,750, while the current southeastern average is $24,462. The bill approved will raise Mississippi teachers' salaries an average of $3,800 by the 1989-90 school term. Teachers will receive an average increase of $2,114 during the 1988-89 school term, to begin Dec. 15.

This week, legislators face deadlines on the other two remaining major issues this year: constitution reform and the county unit system. Both were still in conference committees Friday, as conferees tried to iron out differences in House and Senate versions of the two bills. The deadline for a conference report on the county unit system, which would centralize county government operations, was Saturday. Monday was the final date for the conference committee to report on constitutional reform. Any measure that calls for a constitutionsl convention to re-write the state's 1890 constitution must still be approved by the voters.

The cost of the teachers' raise the first year will be $65.5 million, rising to $117.5 million the second year. Mabus expects higher-than-projected tax collections, one-time money and government reorganization to pay for the increases without the need for a tax increase. Opponents of the bill say they think the money spent on the teacher raise, as well as other appropriations, could result in a $130 million budget deficit next year.

Veterans lawmakers and education supporter Rep. Jim Simpson of Long Beach labeled the education bill "a bold and rather brave venture into the fiscal unknown."

Some teachers called the raise acceptable for the present, but less than they had hoped for, while others said it would help keep good teachers in the classroom.

Twenty two thousand state employees will receive an average salary increase of 3.8 percent.

Since raising state emmployees salaries was not on Mabus' campaign agenda, it isn't known whether the governor will sign the bill. Their pay raise will be paid for by $15.3 million from the state's general budget and $15 million from special funds made up of fees and other revenues.

The minimum wage for state employees was increased from $3.35 to $3.76, which will translate to about a $71 per month increase for 2,600 state employees.

The state employees' wage hikes are not the same across the board. For example, entry level accountants will be a 16 percent raise, from $15,924 to $18,492. Mid-level secretaries, on the other hand, will only see five percent more in their paychecks, up to $13,378 from $12,731.

Teachers likewise will receive raises ranging from $6,500 to $3,775, depending on their level of education.

Teachers and state employees were not the only ones to get additional money from the legislature last week. County sheriffs received a 20 percent pay increase, and justice court judges also received at least a 20 percent boost in their salaries.

Salaries for justice court judges vary widely, from a low of $7,500 in counties with 8,000 population, to $36,600 in Hinds County, which has more than 200,000 residents.

The legislature is scheduled to go home Friday, May 6, but some legislative leaders have said recently that they might not be able to work out acceptable compromises in all the major issues by that date.

Besides raising teachers' pay, the education bill places state-funded kindergartens under the minimum education program, the state's basic education financing mechanism. That removes kindergartens from being considered, and possibly rejected, as separate appropriation each year. Money for transportation of kindergarten students was also provided.

Salaries for reading aides in the first three grades were increased $600, from $5,500 to $6,100. A $50 million Education Reserve Fund was established, to be funded with excess revenues.

House

HB 601. The House voted 108-10 to approve the joint Senate and House conference report on the bill that would raise teachers' salaries by an average of $3,800 by the 1988-89 school term. The pay raise will be implemented Dec. 15, with teachers to receive an average increase of $2,114 during the 1988-89 school term. Compretta, yes.

SB 2054. The House voted 116-5 to raise sheriffs' salaries by at least 20 percent. Sheriffs in Mississippi now make $23,000 to $36,000, depending on county size. Under the House-Senate compromise, they would be paid between $27,600 and $43,200. Compretta, yes.

SB 2507. The House voted 115-5 to raise salaries for justice court judges in 66 of Mississippi's 82 counties by at least 20 percent. Judges' salaries range from $7,500 to $36,600, depending on their county's population. Compretta, yes.

TO WHOM ARE LEGISLATORS LISTENING?

To whom are Mississippi's legislators listening?

Citizens...taxpayers...county supervisors?

The answer seems clear when you consider the recent actions of the Legislature.

Mississippi's county government system is riddled with scandal and waste. There are growing public demands for county government reform.

Here are the "reforms" passed by the House and Senate in recent days:

—A pay increase for county supervisors, of up to 20 percent. The raise is available to supervisors by a vote of supervisors in each county.

—Increased authority for supervisors, resulting from "home rule" for counties. "Home rule" permits county supervisors to take any actions not inconsistent with the constitution or statutes, with the exception that tax ceilings and bond issues may not be exceeded.

The pay raise bill has been approved by House and Senate and has gone to the Governor's desk. The "home rule" bill has passed both houses and is in conference.

A reform deadlocked in conference is county unit, the reform most Mississippians are seeking. County unit would result in better management, better accountability, improved use of tax dollars. But there was a fear as the end of the 1988 legislative session neared, that county unit would either die in conference or be approved in weakened, ineffective form.

To whom are Mississippi's legislators listening?

The answer seems clear.

Local Realtor to collect for Muscular Dystrophy

Brokers and sales associates from ERA Real Estate firms here and across the country will join in a door-to-door fund raising campaign on Saturday to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

ERA Real Estate has raised nearly $8 million since 1977 as the sole corporate sponsor for MDA from the real estate industry.

Of that amount, $800,000 was raised in 1987. The company has a nationwide fund raising target of $1 million for 1988.

"In this year of the Olympics, we're using teamwork as we try topping last year's efforts for MDA," said Herb Dubuisson of Bayshore Realty.

"As with any competition, giving 100 percent of your energy and commitment is the key to success, and we hope the community will pitch in to help us lend a hand to people suffering from neuromuscular disorders," he added.

Individual brokers have raised as much as $40,000 annually through activities such as the door-to-door campaign, bowl-a-thons, dances, and other special events.

Waveland asked to ... gill netting ordinance

BY DELA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen is working on a draft resolution to limit gill net fishing along the beachfront.

Mayor John Longo Jr. said Tuesday that he hopes to have the draft ordinance ready for discussion at the next board meeting, which is set for 7:30 p.m. May 18.

Because the meeting is the day after a special election for the vacant Ward Three and Ward Four aldermen's jobs, the decision could depend on a partially new board if no run-off elections are needed.

A group of sport fishermen who addressed the board Tuesday night through their spokesman, Tommy Barrett, said they planned to return for the May 18 meeting to find out what the board decides.

Barrett and about six fishermen have asked the board for a limit on gill net use, which they contend is reducing the supplies of speckled trout and other species accessible to sport fishermen.

Barrett pointed out that Waveland has no gill net restrictions, unlike Bay St. Louis and Harrison County, other than those imposed by state agencies.

The state limits fishing with gill nets to specific distances from piers and other obstructions, such as 300 feet for mullet and 1,200 for speckled trout.

The fishermen indicated that they would agree to a 1,200 foot limit.

In addition, Ward One Alderman Barbara Rappold commented that the city is in the process of extending the Garfield Ladner Memorial Pier for recreational fishermen.

"If there are going to be no fish that far in, why go to the expense," she said.

Longo, however, said he felt such an ordinance should not discriminate against people using gill nets for "a bona fide business" that has been licensed and asked Charlie Bourgeois, head of the city's utilities department, for input on the matter because Bourgeois is also a gill net fishermen.

Bourgeois said the best place for gill netting is along the beach because fish move in shallow water. However, he said he stops fishing in that area in about mid-April each year so as not to interfere with the reproductive cycle of the trout, and would not object to an ordinance that would limit gill netting during the summer months.

Longo said the recreational fishermen would still be fishing during those months, but Barrett contended that sport fishermen do not take enough fish to interfere with future supplies.

Bourgeois also suggested that the ordinance not cover the entire city shoreline, but extend only from Sears Avenue back to the Bay St. Louis city limits.

He pointed out that past Sears Avenue there is no sand beach for the sport fisherman to use.

Longo said the city can not supersede state regulations and that those restrictions as well as the fish breeding season will be taken into consideration when the ordinance is ...

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

The Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi is considering applying to the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs, Department of Community Development, for a Small Cities Community Development Block Grant of up to Seven Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($750,000). The State of Mississippi has been allocated approximately Twenty Six Million Dollars ($26,000,000) that will be made available to cities and counties on a competitive basis to undertake eligible community development activities. These funds must be used for one of the following purposes.

1. To benefit low and moderate income persons; or
2. To aid in the prevention or elimination of slums or blight; or
3. To meet other community development needs having particular urgency because existing conditions pose a serious and immediate threat to the health or welfare of the community where other financial resources are not available to meet such needs.

The activities for which these funds may be used are in the areas of housing, public facilities and economic development. More specific details regarding eligible activities, program requirements and the rating system will be provided at a public hearing which will be held at the Hancock County Courthouse, Main Street, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi in the Board of Supervisors' Meeting Room on May 12, 1988 at 10:00 a.m. The purpose of this hearing will be to obtain citizen input into the development of the application.

Repairs continue, more shoreline trouble found

BY DENA BISNETTE

Beach Road continues to cost the county money as more need for repair is discovered.

Some projects, such as one replacing four concrete box culverts, are underway and going well, according to reports provided by County Engineer Larry Seal at Monday's meeting of the board of supervisors.

However, new problems are being discovered.

Seal told the board Monday that repair of one of the four box culverts has nearly been completed and that traffic should be able to pass over the structure sometime this week.

The repaired culvert is located at Grand Bayou and Beach Road near the entrance to Bucanneer State Park. Seal said demolition work on two other culverts in Beat One, one at Clermont Harbor and one at Sand Bayou, will begin Thursday if weather conditions do not change.

The Sand Bayou and Clermont Harbor culverts are scheduled for simultaneous repair.

A fourth culvert near the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club in Beat Three is also included in a $412,578 repair contract with J.H. Moon Construction of Ridgeland.

Although the board has received complaints from a Clermont Harbor businessman about the project being done during the summer, Seal praised the contractors.

"I don't think anybody could have improved upon it. The work went as smoothly as it could possibly go," Seal stated.

The culvert repair contract was prompted by a report from Seal that stated that the four concrete structures were deteriorated enough to be dangerous. The project is one of the board's first actions toward a goal announced in January, establishment of a comprehensive repair and maintenance program for Beach Road and the seawall.

On Monday, the board accepted a bid from Southland Enterprises, a firm which has worked on previous Beach Road projects, for replacement of two deteriorated pipe culverts with 78 feet of 36-by-23 inch concrete arch pipe to improve drainage in Beat Three near the yacht club.

However, Seal also reported a new problem which he said needs repair but is not "an imminent danger" at this point.

The problem is near Vacation Lane in Waveland but falls under the county's maintainance responsibilities because the seawall and Beach Road belong to the county.

The engineer said there is a possibility that the county may lose about 200 to 250 feet of seawall, which is being pushed away from the shoreline by the soil pressure behind the structure.

He said the problem lies in the construction of the seawall, which varies in different sections of the shoreline.

In the Vacation Lane section, sheetpiling was used behind the wall itself but most of that sheetpiling has rotted away. The section of wall is apparently anchored by metal rods set in pilings or concrete blocks known as dead men.

The rods are iron or steel and have rusted, with some already broken in two.

Seal said the wall has already been pushed about two inches seaward because there is no sand beach in front of it to help counteract the soil pressure behind it.

Because the board does not want to cause more disruption of the Beach Road during the summer months, which are the peak business season for Bucanneer State park and other establishments, repairs will be planned for later.

Seal said to repair the seawall, the rods would have to be located and that would necessitate tearing up the road.

"We could replace it tomorrow and have the same thing happen next week further down the shoreline," the engineer added.

Pressure grouting to fill voids behind the wall was done in the Vacation Lane area about two months ago, but Seal said that material has already sheared.

Pending a May 19 workshop with representatives from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which has been studying the Hancock County shoreline for about two years, Seal said he would check on obtaining a permit to place riprap in front of the seawall as a temporary stabilization measure.

The riprap has been obtained through the box culvert repair project and is available to the county at no cost.

BaySide fire district seeks clarification

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors is trying to clarify how tax money for the BaySide Park Fire and Water Protection District, also known as the Southwest Hancock Fire, Water and Sewerage Protection District, should be used.

The board had tentatively set up a meeting Wednesday with the district's commissioners and representatives of the BaySide Park Volunteer Fire Department, but it has had to be postponed because not all of the parties involved could attend that night, Board of Supervisors Attorney Gerald Gex stated.

Board of Supervisors President Ronald Cuevas recommended the special meeting Monday after Fire and Water Protection District Commissioner Michael Shiyou came to the board asking for guidance regarding expenditures from a four-mill tax levied on the residents of the district for the first time this year.

County Engineer Larry Seal said representatives of the commission had approached him regarding some preliminary work on the feasibility of constructing a water system in BaySide Park, where private wells and pumps are still used and where raw sewerage has been a problem for a number of years.

Although he has not yet started on the project, Seal asked Gex to clarify whether a water system might be considered a fire protection expense if the pipes were of the correct size to meet state fire rating specifications and if water for consumption could be considered incidental.

While Gex said he felt such a water system could qualify, Cuevas cautioned the commission against spending any additional monies until the question of what is legal and what is not can be settled.

"You'd be risking an illegal expenditure," he said.

Gex said he can obtain a state attorney general's opinion on the matter, but his research indicates that the question could be answered through the legislation that enabled the county to create the fire district in the first place.

The fire district was created under section 19-5-151 and subsequent passages of the Mississippi Code after a group of residents of the district petitioned the board in June 1986.

Shortly after its creation, the district became a controversy when a Bayou Phillips resident, Martin DiSalvo, appeared before the board to protest the membership of the commission, which had been approved along with creation of the district.

He contended that the members of the commission should have been elected.

In addition, members of the fire department protested, stating at that time that they felt the membership of the commission would not properly represent the interests of the department.

They have met with the supervisors in a work session and have reportedly contended that the commission is not providing funding to the fire department at this time.

According to Gex, Hancock County falls under a special statute included in Mississippi Code Section 19-5-189, which governs tax levies for fire districts.

Hancock County is specifically mentioned in part of the statute, although consistent with legislative practice it is identified as "any county bordering on the Gulf of Mexico and the State of Louisiana."

The statute authorizes the board of supervisors to levy up to four mills tax on all taxable real property in a fire district.

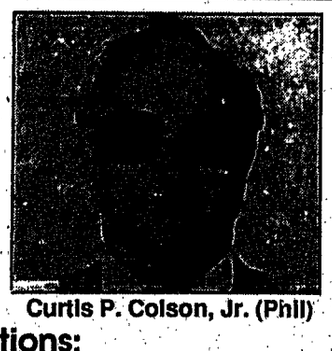

Gex believes that the language regarding the use of the money indicates that the funds must be utilized for fire protection and directly related projects, which could mean that contribution to the fire department is mandatory, depending on the state attorney general's interpretation.

The statute says the proceeds from the four mills "shall be paid over to the board of commissioners of the district to be used either for the operation, support and maintenance of the fire protection district or for the retirement of any bonds issued by the district for fire protection purposes, or both."

GIFT IDEAS FOR THE WOMAN WHO IS EVERYTHING

GIFT GUIDE

Here's a guided tour to the easy to make [illegible] time for her special day, Sunday May [illegible]. For gift idea offerings sure to please [illegible] tie's fine stores and shops and restaurants [illegible] pages and start shopping!

Mother's Day: A holiday observed around the world that grew out of a daughter's love

It was the right idea at the right time. When Anna Reeves Jarvis conceived of Mother's Day, while still bereaved by the loss of her own mother, the stars must have been in just the right configuration for success. Because, in a matter of a couple of years, her concept of Mother's Day literally "took off."

It became a West Virginia state holiday in 1910 and by 1913 Mother's Day was made a National Holiday by Joint Congressional Resolution...all in a matter of six short years from the first observance in Grafton, West Virginia!

Ahead of her time

Yes, others had advocated the idea of Mother's Day more than three decades earlier, but Julia Ward Howe's crusade for peace on behalf of all mothers, following the cruel and costly Franco-Prussian War, 1870-71, came to a sudden halt after just a few years.

Maybe the world wasn't yet ready for the idea. Maybe the idea of crusading for peace in the name of motherhood was just too overpowering to capture the imagination of all, except for a handful of liberal thinkers.

Miss Jarvis' option was simple and easy to grasp. Just honor mother for her role in the family: Caretaker, disciplinarian, teacher, confidante, what have you. It was an idea whose time had come.

Miss Jarvis, born in West Virginia, had moved to Philadelphia with her family, where her mother passed away in 1905. Lonely and heartsick from mourning, she came up with the idea to honor her mother and, through her, all American mothers, with a day of "their own."

She broached the idea to some friends on the anniversary of her mother's demise, in 1907. After an enthusiastic acceptance, she took it to Philadelphia civic leaders and groups for support and development. The famous merchant, Mr. John Wanamaker, not only endorsed it, but helped Miss Jarvis guide it through to fruition a year later.

The first Mother's Day was observed in Grafton, West Virginia, in the "home heartland" of the Jarvis family. It was marked by a simple sermon, preached from the pulpit of a small country church, a symbol that still exists as the birthplace of the modern Mother's Day.

ANNA M. JARVIS, whose daughter conceptualized the idea of Mother's Day.

Growth of an idea

President Woodrow Wilson signed the first Mother's Day Proclamation in 1914, setting aside the Second Sunday of each May to be observed as Mother's Day.

Miss Jarvis never married. She never had any children of her own. But she had the comfort and joy of seeing Mother's Day observed almost universally.

Miss Jarvis didn't think of greeting cards or gifts or big floral tributes. She wanted only that mothers be remembered with a special letter, or a bunch of wildflowers, or an extra visit by her children on Mother's Day.

But Americans have a way of their own with celebrations. Letters have grown into a tidal wave of 125,000,000 greeting cards. Wildflowers aren't as available today as they were in the West Virginia countryside in the early years of the 20th century. And, we Americans find reason to mark every special occasion with gifts.

By 1910, Gov. William Glassman of West Virginia had declared Mother's Day to be a state holiday. From there the idea spread across the country so quickly that in 1913, Congress, by Joint Resolution, made Mother's Day a national holiday, to be observed in all the states and territories.

Today, Mother's Day brings out the best in most of us. That "best" finds expression in over six billion dollars to honor our mothers spent annually. Flowers almost beyond measure, all kinds of things to wear, fragrances, and those wonderful labor-saving appliances that make life easier for all those hard working moms who keep house and keep a foot-hold in the job market outside the home, are lavished upon American moms.

Miss Jarvis devoted her life to the advancement of Mother's Day as a national institution — right up to her demise in 1948. She kept writing, calling, pressuring and collecting memorabilia, until her crusade became almost an obsession.

Result of devotion

Did Miss Jarvis really love her mother so devotedly or was her dedication to Mother's Day an expiation of a guilt she felt? No one really knows. But everyone is truly grateful for her devotion to her idea. And how that idea has caught on in 79 years. It's come a long way from a little church in West Virginia to a holiday that now has captured the imagination and acceptance around the world.

This year you can celebrate your own mother on Mother's Day, May 10, 1987.

Mother's Day busiest telephone calling day

Only Christmas rivals Mother's Day as Mississippi's busiest calling day of the year, according to South Central Bell.

"A phone call to Mom on her day has long been an American tradition," said Pat Santucci, district manager. She suggests several tips for getting calls through faster and easier on Sunday, May 8.

"On Mother's Day, calling volume is lightest in the early morning and in the afternoon before 5 p.m.," Santucci said. "So call early in the day for fastest service. Also, it's more economical to call long distance before 5 p.m. on Sundays."

Statewide, South Central Bell estimates its Mississippi operators will handle nearly 100,000 long distance calls this Mother's Day. Even more calls will be dialed without operator assistance.

Long distance calling on a typical day is heaviest between metropolitan areas, but the pattern of calling shifts on Mother's Day when people call from their homes in the suburbs, small towns and rural areas.

Another difference is that Mother's Day conversations are usually longer than those on an average business day.

"We're going to do everything we can to ensure that all Mother's Day calls are completed as quickly and efficiently as possible," Santucci said.

A GIFT OF PEACE AND QUIET...has always been a present any mom would prize. But the contemporary mother who's juggling career and family responsibilities seems to need it more than ever. That's why a luxurious lounge chair such as this stylish version from Riverside would make an especially fitting Mother's Day gift this year.

Reminder to take time for herself may be the best Mother's Day present of all

Recognition that today's mom needs more time to herself than she's getting may be one of the best gifts a family could give this Mother's Day.

Statistics show that while busy women are managing to balance their dual roles, they have little or no time left for themselves.

Mothers — and psychologists — are beginning to voice concern about these all-work-and-no-play days. Yet most moms still find it difficult to justify the cutbacks that might be required to carve out an hour or so for themselves.

Sometimes it takes a nudge from caring family members to make a busy mom realize a little rest is everyone's right. An excellent way to get the message across is to give her her very own lounge chair this Mother's Day.

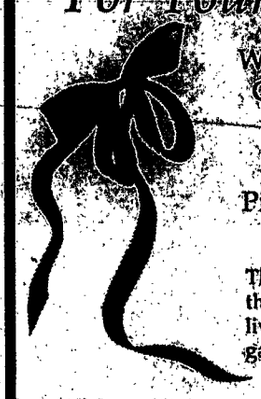

A femininely scaled and luxuriously upholstered chair such as this sumptuous style from Riverside Furniture Corporation can be a constant reminder that mothers have responsibilities to themselves as well as others.

Accompany the gift with a pledge not to disturb mom when she's using it, and you may well have the perfect Mother's Day present.

GIFT IDEAS FOR THE WOMAN WHO IS EVERYTHING

GIFT GUIDE

Here's a guided tour to the way to mom's heart, just in time for her special day, Sunday May 8th-Mother's Day! For gift idea offerings sure to please from this communitie's fine stores and shops and restaurants too, turn the pages and start shopping!

In appreciation of excellence, give mom a treasured present of gold filled jewelry

She works hard for her money. She works hard for her family. Mother's Day is the perfect opportunity to demonstrate just how much you appreciate her.

Make this year special, with a truly elegant gift, one that will last a lifetime, a gift that will set her aglow with pride, but won't burden the budget.

According to Frieda Forsley, fashion consultant to the Jewelry Industry Council, gold filled jewelry (also referred to as gold overlay) is an affordable extravagance.

Gold filled jewelry is a perfect complement to any working mom's wardrobe. For the tailored woman, a gold filled pin lends style and panache to a jacket lapel.

Choose a bold geometric design for contemporary flair. For a more traditional look, consider floral or circular motifs with touches of pearl or colored stones.

If her working attire is more casual, gold filled chains in a variety of lengths and styles are great with sweaters, blouses and dresses.

Add-on pendants and drops can change the look. And they're so affordable you can add to her collection for birthdays and other gift-giving occasions.

For sophisticated drama, nothing fills the bill like a bold gold filled collar. Again, you get a knock-em-dead look without killing your bank account.

Earrings and bracelets are always appropriate gifts. As with other gold filled jewelry items, they're available in styles to fit any fashion mood.

Ask your local jeweler to see a selection of gold filled gift items. It's a great way to tell mom she's golden.

For more information on gold filled jewelry, write to: The Gold Filled Association, P. O. Box 2137, Attleboro, MA 02703.

GIVE A GIFT OF LOVE FOR MOTHER'S LEISURE HOURS

Intimate apparel is a gift that's gratifying to the wearer, whether she's at work, at play or just lounging about the hearth.

So, whether your mother is one of the majority who works outside the home, while running the "complete household," or whether she can devote all of her time to her home, family and community interests, something "intimate" is sure to please.

Leisure is luxury — and it's the wise mother who takes it whenever she can get it!

There is no more gratifying leisure than those precious hours in a day or a week, when mother can do pretty much as she wants...and when she's doing it wrapped in the luxuriousness of a silk or nylon negligee, with the relaxing comfort of a short or long gown beneath, it's the peak of personal gratification.

For mother's busier hours, the sleek, pampered feel of a very personal foundation garment, a teddy, a shamefully extravagant slip or bra can be just as reassuring.

The gamut of choice is wide as the horizon: Silks or nylons; cottons or cotton blends that are so easy to care for; delicate and subtle tints and hues or strident blacks, reds, and prints both bold and subdued.

You can choose from sleeping gowns (long or short), negligees (long or short), pajamas, robes, housecoats, slips, bras, panties and foundation garments.

What mom really wants for Mother's Day: Something that shows how special she is

How do you decide what mom really wants for Mother's Day? Here are a few gift suggestions that will show mom exactly how special she is to you.

The traditional Mother's Day dinner at her favorite restaurant is always welcome. The day after Mother's Day, though, it's back to the daily grind of putting dinner on the table for a hungry family.

Break from routine

You can give her a break from the usual routine, however, by catering a meal at home the week after Mother's Day. Gourmet food stores and an increasing number of restaurants prepare entire "meals to go."

Or if mom has a permanent sweet tooth, there are mail order houses that will deliver a different dessert to her door every month.

If you want a more lasting way to liven up her kitchen time, consider General Electric's Spacemaker® color television with AM/FM radio.

Kitchen companion

It's a perfect companion for listening to the news or catching a favorite soap opera without ever abandoning what's in the oven.

The Spacemaker® color television mounts easily under kitchen cabinets, so it never takes up valuable counter space either. Once barbecue season arrives, the TV slides out of its bracket for easy portability and has a rechargeable battery pack for use indoors and out.

If you're thinking of a bouquet of mom's favorite flowers, make it extra special by including a new vase to put them in.

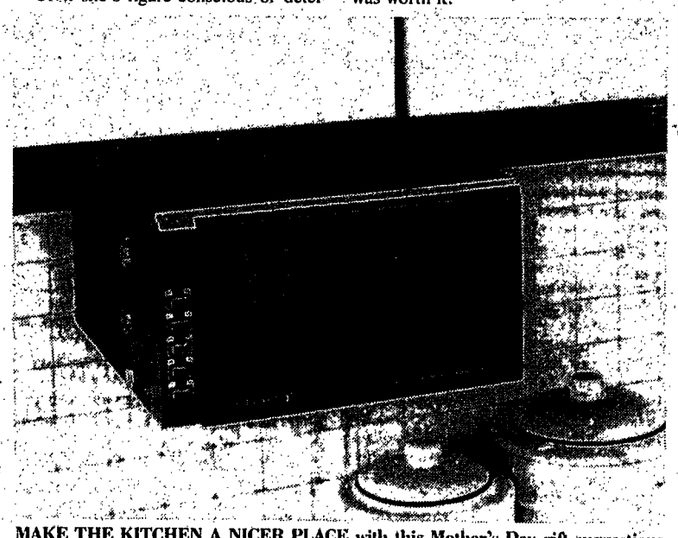

The vase will get lots of use if you remember to freshen up the bouquet regularly. She'll feel like it's Mother's Day all year long.

Pampering mom with a gift certificate for a facial, manicure or make-over at a local salon or department store would be a special treat.

Or if she's figure-conscious or determined to get into shape, a membership at a local spa or fitness salon might be a good idea.

Whatever you decide, the important thing to remember is how special the person you're shopping for is—try and make the gift just as special.

Even if it means a little more time and thought, when you see her smile on Mother's Day morning, you'll know it was worth it.

MAKE THE KITCHEN A NICER PLACE with this Mother's Day gift suggestion: General Electric's Spacemaker® color television. It provides entertainment without taking up valuable counterspace in the busiest room of the house.

Mother's Day celebration: Contemporary tribute to maternal love

LINDA LAVIN

LINDY BOGGS

1987 Outstanding Mothers announced by National Committee

For the ninth consecutive year, the National Mother's Day Committee has announced its list of Outstanding Mothers. The Honors for 1987 were presented at a luncheon ceremony in New York on April 23rd.

The Mothers singled out for the distinctive Outstanding Mother Award were chosen for their combination of talents, skills and interests that have made them role model leaders in the mosaic of today's complex social structure.

Not only have they been good mothers, but they have proven themselves — through recognition by our society — for their contributions above and beyond the home alone.

As more and more mothers find their way into business, science, the arts and engineering, while managing and rearing families, the full extent of their sacrifices and dedication over the centuries is only now being fully appreciated.

Mothers on whom the Honors were bestowed embrace interests and activities that span the entire spectrum of our organized society. They are: Congresswoman Lindy Boggs of the State of Louisiana; Evelyn Lauder, Business Executive and Philanthropist; Linda Lavin, Actress, Stage, Screen & TV; Lynn Redgrave, Internationally Recognized Performing Arts Star of Stage, Screen & TV; Dr. Rosalyn Yalow, Nobel Prize Winner for Medicine.

First presented in 1979, the Outstanding Mother Awards have come to represent a benchmark by which we all measure the achievements of this new generation of women who skillfully manage the burdens of home, and a niche in the work force, to help construct a stronger and better adjusted society.

In recognizing a few role model mothers, the National Mother's Day Committee recognizes all American mothers, and seeks through the annual OMA Awards to take full cognizance of the expanded responsibilities vested in today's full time mothers/job holders, who in 1987 represent more than 65 percent of all mothers in the country.

Mr. Bernard Olsoff, President of the National Mother's Day Committee and Executive Vice President of Frederick Atkins, Inc., admits, "I'm not a mother, but I'm married to one.

"I know, first hand, what she has to put up with just staying in step with my schedule, while keeping the family in line and running a household that will satisfy the needs of all of us.

"She leads a dual life, too, though she is no longer in the work force. Her second job, after wrestling with the household, is in civic works that consume as much of her and her time as would a full-time job.

"She makes me realize how much we depend on our mothers to keep our society on an even keel, whether the waters are smooth or rough."

Says Carolyn Wojcik, Chairperson of the Outstanding Mother Award Committee, "Mothering was once a full-time, only-time profession. But, in recent years, as the demands of the family have become greater, as more families seek the 'good life' and more women search for complete fulfillment in the dual lifestyle of homemaker and moneymaker, demands on mothers have escalated, along with pressures arising from doing a double-job.

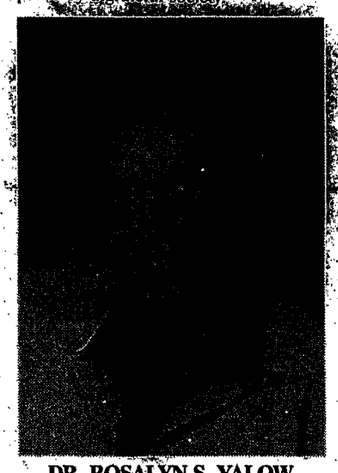

"From my perspective, the role of mothers will become even more demanding, and setting aside just one day a year to tell them that they have not sacrificed for us in vain, is a most appropriate response by a grateful society.

"My own mother appreciates our stopping, one day a year, to let her know how much we care and, when I'm a mother, I know that I'll feel rewards for the added note of thoughtfulness."

There are almost 80,000,000 American mothers. Mother's Day is an opportunity for the other 160,000,000 citizens of this land to express their love and respect to those wonderful women who have, for so long, been the very underpinning of our society.

After all, what would we be [illegible] not for the mother of [illegible] bore us and brought us [illegible] life!

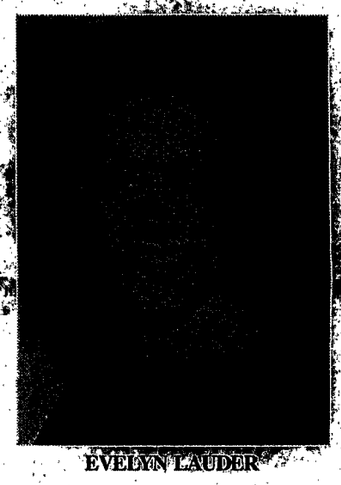

The Outstanding Mother Awards were presented in New York at the Center Hotel. About 300 [illegible] government, commerce and industry, education, religion and the sciences attended the ceremonies.

Frisbie firm cited

The Bay St. Louis real estate firm of Coldwell Banker Nell Frisbie, Inc. has been recognized by Coldwell Banker Inc. as the 'top listing agency' in the Southeastern Region of the U.S. for agencies of 12 sales associates and under in March.

Coldwell Banker is a national company with four regions in the U.S.

Everyone claims to be a Cajun chef but you have to live and study among the people," Lott said.

"Paul Prudhomme is a good example. He learned from his sister 'Enola in a small cafe' in Washington, La. Alex Partout studied and learned from his grandmother, mother and great-grandmother, 'Mo-Mo' Partout."

Some of the items and results of Cajun cooking are unusual outside Southwest Louisiana. Lott had to search for one of his most prized pieces of kitchen equipment, a machine that makes boudin, a spicy rice dressing made from pork, pork liver and rice and stuffed into a sausage casing, then eaten as a snack or part of a meal.

Tasso is another Rooster's specialty and consists of heavily smoked, highly seasoned strips of pork used as a seasoning for beans, soups and gumbos.

"A great deal of heart and love is put into our food and atmosphere at Rooster's, and an awful lot of stubborn pride to be the very best at what we do," Lott said.

My favorite of all strawberry desserts is strawberry shortcake, the old-fashioned biscuit or 'shortening bread' dough sort that I recall from my earliest days, when the family cook made small shortcakes, tiny biscuit size, for me and my brothers and sister while she went about the business of preparing the dessert for the family dinner table.

Sometimes Mary made the shortcakes individual size, cutting the dough into three-inch circles; at others she made one large circle—and always, she split the biscuits crosswide, and slathered butter over the bottom half, heaped on the berries, and drizzled more butter over the top half before mounding the berries atop. We usually ate ours with thick cream poured atop at the very last minute, to keep the shortcake crisp, but some prefer whipped cream as a topping.

Some cooks prefer to use sponge cake instead of biscuit dough for their shortcakes; others like pound cake slices with berries heaped atop. But I like:

OLD-FASHIONED STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

2 cups flour
3 tsp. baking powder
4 cups (1 quart) strawberries, stemmed, havled, sweetened if you wish
¾ cup milk, approximately
4 to 6 Tblsp. butter or shortening
Dash of salt

Sift the flour, baking powder and salt into a mixing bowl. Cut the butter or shortening into the flour with a pastry blender, two knives (or, these days, food processor) until the mixture looks like cornmeal or coarse oatmeal.

Mix in the milk slowly, using enough to make a puffy dough. Shape into a ball, and knead quickly, don't overdo it, on a lightly floured board. Roll out to a thickness of ½ or ¾ inch, the size of a cake plate, or, if you're making individual shortcakes, cut with a three-inch cutter or a glass dipped in flour. Bake in a 400 degree oven for 10 to 15 minutes, or until done.

Split crosswise, butter bottom half at once. Spoon the berries over, top with other half, top with more strawberries. And, for the truly old-fashioned shortcake, bring to the table and serve with thick cream poured atop each serving just before you take that first bite! Or, you may prefer to top the shortcake or cakes with sweetned whipped cream.

You may, of course, wish to use a buicuit mix for the base; you also may want to add a little sugar to your mix—suit your own taste, of course. (Several servings, depending upon appetites).

And, here's another extra-easy dessert:

1 12-oz. box vanilla wafers
½ cup butter, softened
2 eggs
1 qt. fresh strawberries, halved and sugared
1 cup heavy cream, whipped and sweetened

Crush the vanilla wafers and spread half, or a good bit more of them in an 8x12-inch dish or pan. Cream the butter, add the eggs and beat well. Spread the mixture over the crumbs, and cover with the berries. Cover in turn, with the whipped cream and sprinkle the reserved cookie crumbs atop. Chill several hours or overnight.

Here's a request for a recipe, if anyone out there has it—for watermelon pickles made with 'red hots' candy, as the late Trina McDonald (Mrs. C. C. McDonald) of Bay St. Louis, made them—and they were delicious! Corinne McDonald, her daughter-in-law, can't find her copy, and I fear mine was lost in my latest attempt to bring order out of the chaos of my study—so, if anyone has the recipe, or remembers it, please call. Our mouths are a-watering!)

Senior Citizen Happenings

By EVE McDONALD

CATCHING UP

We have been very busy lately but I have been in no condition to write. I fell and broke my ankle and have been in a wheel chair ever since. Now I really know how many of you feel being homebound. It ain't fun! Thank goodness I can come to the Center now even though I still need help.

Thanks to all of our staff, senior citizens, RSVP and especially my husband for this extra help. All those cards and calls made me feel really important and missed.

SENIOR MONTH

We always try to do something special during the month of May to celebrate Senior Citizen Month. This year we will have 3 picnics at Buccaneer Park for our Nutrition clients. We will have them on 3 different days of the week so we can give everyone a chance to participate. The dates will be May 11th (Wednesday), 17th (Tuesday) and 27th (Friday).

If you are not a regular nutrition client and would like to participate check with Tuleter Oliver and see if we have enough meals for you, or bring your own lunch and come play with us! We will go out about 9:30 a.m. and eat about 11:30 a.m. The rest of the time we will play games, visit and enjoy the cool breeze and beautiful view.

We will also have a reception for all seniors at the Center, but those plans are not complete. Check our bulletin board or our column for further information.

TRAVEL CLUB

Talk of an active bunch! They just got back from the West Coast and are planning more fun trips. Here is the current list:

May 9th Dog races in Mobile—$22.

May 21-22 Cajun Country—$140 per person (double).

June 24-27 Nashville—$240 (double)

Call Tuleter Oliver for further information.

SSC to vie for state playoff spot Friday

The St. Stanislaus Rockachaw baseball team winds up its regular season Friday when they host the St. Martin Yellow Jackets in a Division 4A District game at 3:45 p.m. at Rockachaw diamond.

The Rockachaws have played exceptionally strong baseball the past month of the season, defeating East Central in eight innings, 5-4, and sweeping a pair of games from George County last week.

Should the Rocks win Friday, it would assure them of the runner-up spot in the district, and they would advance next week into the state playoffs with district champion d'Iberville.

Last Monday the Rocks traveled to Lucedale to face George County in a key district game. The Rocks exploded for four runs in the top of the first inning on a three-run homerun by Yasin Shabazz, followed by a solo shot off the bat of Lloyd Nicaud.

George County came back in the bottom of the first to score five runs on two hits, and the ballgame stayed close the entire way.

Cedric Smith came in to pitch in the third inning, relieving Bert Dean and Lloyd Nicaud who saw action early in the contest. Smith shut down the Rebels attack, as he allowed only two hits in five innings en route to the Rockachaws 12-9 win over the Rebels.

Leading the Rocks hitting attack was Shabazz with 2 homeruns, a triple, and seven RBI's, followed by Scott Heitzmann and Nicaud who each had 2 RBI's. Rocky Rhodes collected three singles and scored two runs for the Rocks. Smith helped his own cause with three hits, and Joe Lee added two singles. The Rocks outhit the Rebels 16 to 6, and scored runs in six of the seven innings played.

The St. Martin game Friday will be a pivotal game for the young Rockachaw squad, as St. Martin defeated the Rocks 11-0 in their only meeting earlier in the season. Since the St. Martin contest, the Rockachaws got hot and won their next three district games, putting them in their present position with a 6-3 district record. St. Martin, 5-3, plays at d'Iberville tonight.

"I hope everyone who enjoys baseball makes it out to the game," SSC coach Mike Gemelli said. "I know St. Martin will come over here ready to whip us and claim that playoff spot, but I believe our team will be ready for them.

"We've enjoyed a fine season so far," said Gemelli. "We've already beat three schools that have won their district—Biloxi, Long Beach, and St. John. We also handed d'Iberville their only district loss of the season. I just don't think our boys want their season to end Friday."

Friday's game will also have a special promotional feature, as many of the local eating establishments—Domino's, Pizza Hut, Popeye's, Burger King, McDonalds, and the Eatery—have all donated free meals to be given away every inning. Winning numbers will be stamped on the back of baseball programs, with the game announcer calling out the winners between innings.

Registration open for LeBlanc Swimming School's 13th year

BY EDGAR PEREZ

Clyde and Helen LeBlanc of Bay St. Louis will begin classes in their 13th annual School of Swimming for youngsters on June 13.

In addition to the LeBlancs, school faculty includes Kathy Alliston who has worked with the LeBlanc's for 12 years including five as a student; Sabrina Kersanac with three years teaching experience; Jeffrey Battle, a St. Stanislaus senior, and Brian Plunkett of Pass Christian High, both in their second year as instructors.

"Through the years we have developed 63 strokes, techniques and devices which we utilize as teaching aids in our program," Clyde LeBlanc explained.

"We also include and emphasize water safety in our courses," LeBlanc added.

The LeBlancs are credited with teaching hundreds of local residents how to swim during the 13 years they have been offering instruction in the backyard pool at their 114 Boardman Ave. residence.

Three three-week sessions will be offered this year consisting of one hour of instruction each weekday during the period.

Monday, June 13 will be opening day with classes beginning at 10 a.m. and continuing through the afternoon.

Second session will begin Tuesday July 5 following the Fourth of July Holiday, and the third session is slated to begin July 25.

Beginner, intermediate and advanced certificates of proficiency are awarded upon successful completion of the sessions, LeBlanc noted.

Tuition is $18 per week for the three-week program plus a one-time insurance charge of $2.

LeBlanc said depending on the student's progress and other factors, the student may attend one, two or all three sessions in one summer.

For additional information or to register call the LeBlancs at 467-9853.

Mississippi freshwater fishes studied

HATTIESBURG—A study of the distribution of Mississippi freshwater fishes at the University of Southern Mississippi may lead to the development of a computer data base on the subject, the first of its kind in the state.

Under the direction of USM Department of Biology Professor Dr. Steven Ross, a $33,634 grant from the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation (MDWC) will be used to support travel to fish museums in the eastern United States to examine materials collected from Mississippi. Ross and his colleagues also will examine materials collected by MDWC.

The information his team gathers will be used in a book Ross currently is writing on the fishes of Mississippi, which will include the localities of game and fishspecies in the state.

Ross said another MDWC grant of $24,145 will be used to study the Pascagoula River system in hopes of obtaining information on the "distribution of commercial and recreational non-game fising in Mississippi." He also will examine angler usage in the Pascagoula River system, along with the amount of recreational and commercial fishing occurring in the area. The study hopefully also will provide information for the other fish studies the department has undertaken.

Quarterhorse show slated for weekend

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Hancock County and Picyune Riding Clubs are sponsoring their 14th Annual Quarterhorse Show, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The event will be held at Ladner's Arena, Lakeshore Road, 4.8 miles from US-90.

Charles Russ, chairman of the Hancock Riding Club, reports the show is free to spectators.

"Local horse lovers will get a chance to see some of the top quarterhorses in the nation. We have entries coming from at least eight states for this weekend's events," Russ said.

Local youths who are rated in the top-ten in the nation will be among those exhibiting horses at the show.

Coastal participants will include Kelly Ladner, Lakeshore, barrel racing; Kinta Ladner, BaySide Park, barrels and pole bending; Any VanCalsem, Pass Christian, barrels, pole bending and stake race; Lanny Ferguson, Ocean Springs, working cowhorse; Dianna Doucet, Ocean Springs, barrell racing; and Jamie Bean, Picayune, barrel racing.

Showing begins Friday at 9 a.m. with halter. English classes will be featured around noon each day followed by classes in western pleasure, horsemanship, trail, Western riding and reining.

Speed events will follow in the afternoon with barrel racing and pole bending. Calf roping, working cowhorse, and team roping, heading and heeling will be featured in the cattle classes in late afternoon on Friday, and at 8 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Team penning will be a new featured class this year and will be held at 7 p.m. on Friday, Russ said, adding "This event has been growing rapidly in our area." This class features three riders working within a two minute time to get three cows out of a herd and drive them into a pen.

Russ stated, "The team penning is an excellent class for everyone to watch, as it has some fast action."

In addition to Russ, officers of the Hancock County Riding Club include Billy Wayne Ladner, vice-chairman; Jo Ann Adom, secretary; Sharon Ladner, treasurer; and Nancy Russ, AQHA secretary.

Sleeping sickness poses annual threat in state

Early spring in Mississippi means horse owners should become aware of the danger of an outbreak of Sleeping Sickness (Equine Encephalomyelitis) in the state's horse population.

Sleeping Sickness is a viral disease that infects horses and is usually fatal," said Dr. Clyde Taylor, a veterinarian with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "The disease can be prevented and controlled by vaccination."

Taylor said the two most common forms of the disease in the country are Eastern Encephalomyelitis (EEE) and Western Equine Encephalomyelittis (WEE). The Veterinary educator said the eastern form is more often fatal in horses, but either form may leave the animal useless because of permanent brain damage.

"The virus is transmitted to a susceptible animal by biting insects (usually mosquitoes)," Taylor said. "The disease also is a public health hazard because it can be transmitted to humans.

"With the availability of vaccines to prevent and control the disease, there is no reason for this disease to attack our horse population in Mississippi every year."

Sea Grant awards fellowships

OCEAN SPRINGS— How juvenile shrimp enter and remain in the estuary, the effects of seagrass beds on spotted seatrout growth rates and how an endangered species of bird is adapting to city life are among questions under investigation by 1988 Sea Grant fellowship recipients at Mississippi and Alabama universities.

The Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium, a marine research organization headquartered here, has awarded fellowships to six graduate students involved in marine-related research at consortium member institutions, according to Dr. James I. Jones, director. The awards are competitive with selection based on the student's research proposal and academic performance.

Recipients, all working toward master's degrees, are Thomas R. Matthews, University of Alabama (UA); David A. Nadeau, USA; Robin Densmore, Mississippi State University; Pamela L. James, University of South Alabama (AUS); D. Marc Wilson, UA; and Sara E. LeCroy, University of Southern Mississippi.

Matthew's work, conducted under the direction of Dr. William Schroeder of the UA Marine Science Program at DISL, combines field collections and laboratory observations to determine how juvenile shrimp enter and remain in the estuary.

Nadeau is conducting field experiments to determine if there is a difference between the growth rates of juvenile spotted seatrout found over seagrass beds and those found over unvegetated bottom areas. Nadeau's major profesor is Dr. Kenneth L. Heck, Jr.

In a study of least terns, a bird on the endangered species list, Ms. Densmore is comparing the nesting success of least tern populations on the Mississippi beach with the success of birds of the same species that have established colonies on the roof of a coastal shopping mall. Her major professor is Dr. Jerome A. Jackson.

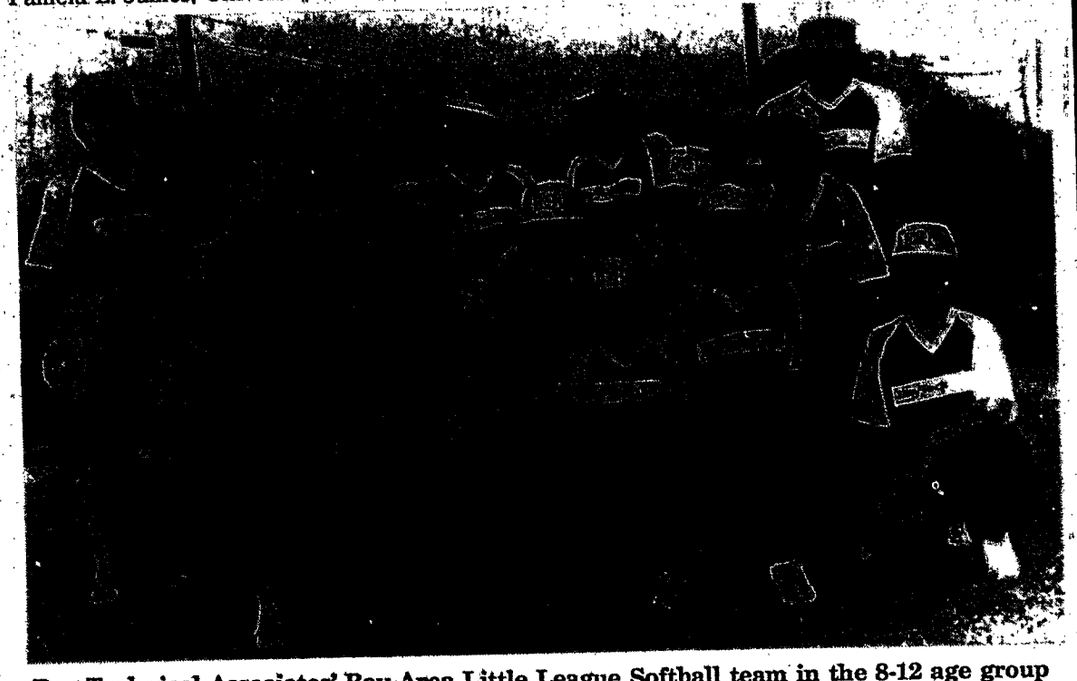

Ms. James is studying the effects of light intensity and the complexity of a seagrass environment on the feeding activity of the seahorse, a species representative of the ambush-type fish predator. She is conducting her research at the Dauphin Island Sea Lab (DISL) under the direction of Dr. Judy Stout.

Wilson is investigating the effects of seagrass vegetation and other factors on the growth of the hard clam. directing his study at DISL are Dr. Schroeder and Dr. Heck.

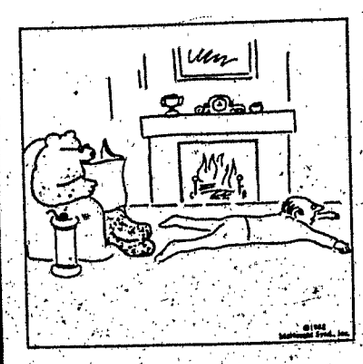

Ms. LeCroy is studying nonparasitic amphipod crustaceans that live in sponges in the eastern Gulf of Mexico. She is conducting her research at the Gulf Coast Research laboratory under the direction of Dr. Richard W. Heard.

A federal matching funds program within the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, Sea Grant is a network of programs promitng wise use and conservation of marine and Great Lakes resources through research, education and public service. A consortium of universities and research institutions administers Sea Grant in Mississippi and Alabama.

Mississippi consortium members are Gulf Coast Research laboratory, Mississippi State University, University of Mississippi and University of Southern Mississippi. Alabama members are Auburn University, University of Alabama, University of Alabama at Birmingham and University of South Alabama.

Pre-summer fishing tips

Seasonal change is readily apparent to us as the geese head back north, the lilacs start to bloom, and the streetsweepers replace snowplows on the public thoroughfares. But few fishermen are able to read the seasonal changes beneath the waters on their favorite fishing hole.

The time I heard a fish's calendar I thought someone sold Ole a real tale! The concept of definite seasonal cycles for fish was cemented in 1973 by Al and Ron Linder (who publish the most authoritative magazine I know on the subject, the In-Fisherman) and Bill Binkleman—so it really hasn't been around a long time, but the Linders have developed such a scientific base for this calendar that ignorance of these cycles put the uninformed fisherman at a definite disadvantage.

The two most important elements to rememember about a cycle are:(1) water temperature and, (2) the developing food chain and weed growth. No matter what time of year you're on the water, ask yourself questions about the water temperature, weed growth and the food chain and you can pretty well determine where the bass will and will not be. The Linders established the following cycles: Pre-spawn, spawn, post-spawn, pre-summer, summer peak, summer, post-summer, fall turnover, cold water, and frozen water. This column has already covered the first three.

One of the most challenging periods of the year is pre-summer. It's the transition period from post-spawn to summer where the bass are establishing what will be their summer patterns. Just what do we mean when we say bass are establishing their patterns?

"Basically, there are three types of bass," answers Linda England, Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member. "You've got your fish that stay in shallow water—a certain percentage of bass are going to stay in shallow water year round. A certain percentage are going to move out to deep structure after they're done spawning, and they're going to live their life on that structure. Another small percentage of them are what we call 'roamers,' they just move constantly.

"Once the majority of bass move out of the shallow water spawning beds and recover from the spawn, then they go to whatever their normal lifestyle is. As the water temperature rises, their metabolism increases, and they get more and more active. That's what I consider the pre-summer leading into the summer situation."

Enland prefers to use spinnerbaits, crankbaits and jig and frog during this cycle. Her tactics differ somewhat on the four types of fishing situations: natural lakes, rivers, creeks and man-made impoundments.

"In that natural lake I'm going to concentrate on the visible cover that's around that lake," England stresses. "I feel that the bass relates to cover and/or structure. And in natural lakes a lot of time you don't have structure as we think of it—as it's been defined by most bass fishermen. You're not going to have pre-channel edges, the old roadbeds, the river channel drop-offs—the things that we consider structure. So I'm going more for cover on natural lakes, and look for any natural points. I'm going to concentrate on any natural structure that would be present but always with an eye towards the cover."

For river fishing, Linda England suggests looking in "the areas where the bass can get back out of the current but yet still be in a striking position, where they can feed easily. The downstream side of any cuts, cuts leading back into shallow backwater areas are always good when bass are in a resting mood. They'll be on the upstream side or right up on that break when they're more active.

"I'm going to look for any type of cut or creek that goes off that river and may be a gathering place for bass. Again, I'm going to look for cover and I'm going to fish the upstream side (to establish my pattern) and if they're in an active mood they'll usually be upstream of any cover; if they're inactive, they'll usually be downstream in that eddy area."

On a creek, England would fish it just like a river. "Basically, I'll be fishing the same types of things. I'll go to a lighter line and smaller lures and a much more quiet appoach," she states.

It's on man-made impoundments that England really starts talking about structure.

"I'd be looking more toward the shallow structure for the active bass—all visible structure, all visible cover on this structure, i.e., stump along the edge of a creek channel. I'd fish them fast with a fast moving bait that can cover a lot of water, such as a crankbait or spinnerbait. I think during that pre-summer stage, structure fish are not really gathered up; they'll be more suspended, more scattered. And in the pre-summer, I'm going to concentrate more on shallow water structure and cover.

OMC's Parts & Accessories has introduced a new streamlined transom mount transducer designed for use with OMC's Tracker 2000 fishfinder. The new transducer penetrates the water surface to escape bubbles and other interference caused by rivits on aluminum boats for better performance while under way., according to OMC.

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE HUMMINBIRD PROS

by Larry Colombo

For the first time since very early spring most fishermen will experience difficulty locating fish. Bass and crappie have finished spawning and have moved out of shallow water and away from the shoreline. Often bass will suspend over open water for a period right after spawning. A depth sounder plays an important role in locating these fish.

Most game fish, especially those structure oriented species, can be found establishing summer patterns. Bass can be found near breaks in depth, drop offs where stumps and brush exist, along weedbeds or moss beds and long, rocky points.

Smallmouth bass love moving water, especially where rocky or gravel points, bars and islands exist. Light line and smaller lures take more smallmouth consistantly.

Trolling will prove to be a most effective method for taking your share of game fish at this time. Your depth sounder will help establish the location of the fish in relation to the bottom. Choose a lure which runs at the depth the fish are holding.

County Schools stage drug programs

Hancock County School District recently sponsored a week of activities supporting the 'Just Say No' campaign against drugs.

Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlington hosted Sheriff Ronald Peterson who commended efforts to teach children how so say no to drugs.

The Drug Research and Education Association in Mississippi sanctioned the project.

The week began at HNC with Jimmy Johnson visiting from the Harrison County Sheriff's Department. He presented a video and spoke briefly on the consequences of using illegal drugs.

Billy Bob from Show Biz Pizza visited the lower elementary students and gave them buttons to wear to declare their freedom from drugs.

Sheriff Peterson brought McGruff, the national crime dog. He presented a fast-paced video and explained the consequences of committing crimes related to buying and selling drugs.

A Monday night PTA meeting featured Vera Mestayer who shared the ideals of the Project Ology Program with the parents. Its primary concept is to instill high self-esteem and present a positive approach in discouraging drug abuse.

Some 750 colorful balloons were released Friday afternoon.

Before the balloons were out of sight, Tommy Bienvenu from La Place, La. jumped from a plane at 4,000 feet. His daring dive provided the enthusiasm for the children to shout, 'Just Say No' as he landed before them in the football stadium.

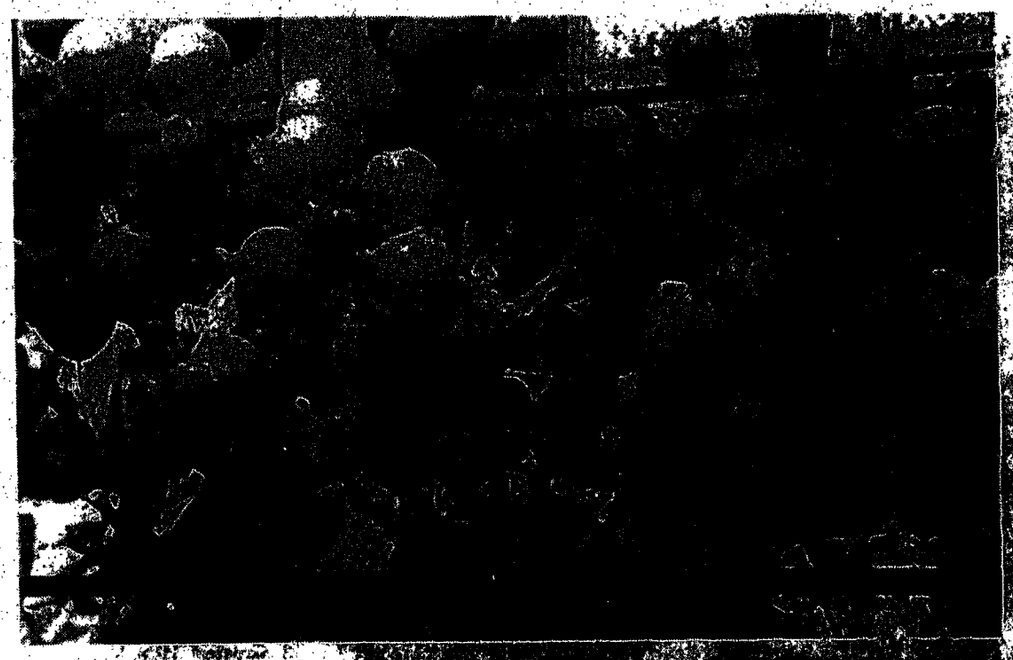

The students who won a poster contest were honored with a trip to Jackson to celebrate the balloon release with first lady Julie Mabus.

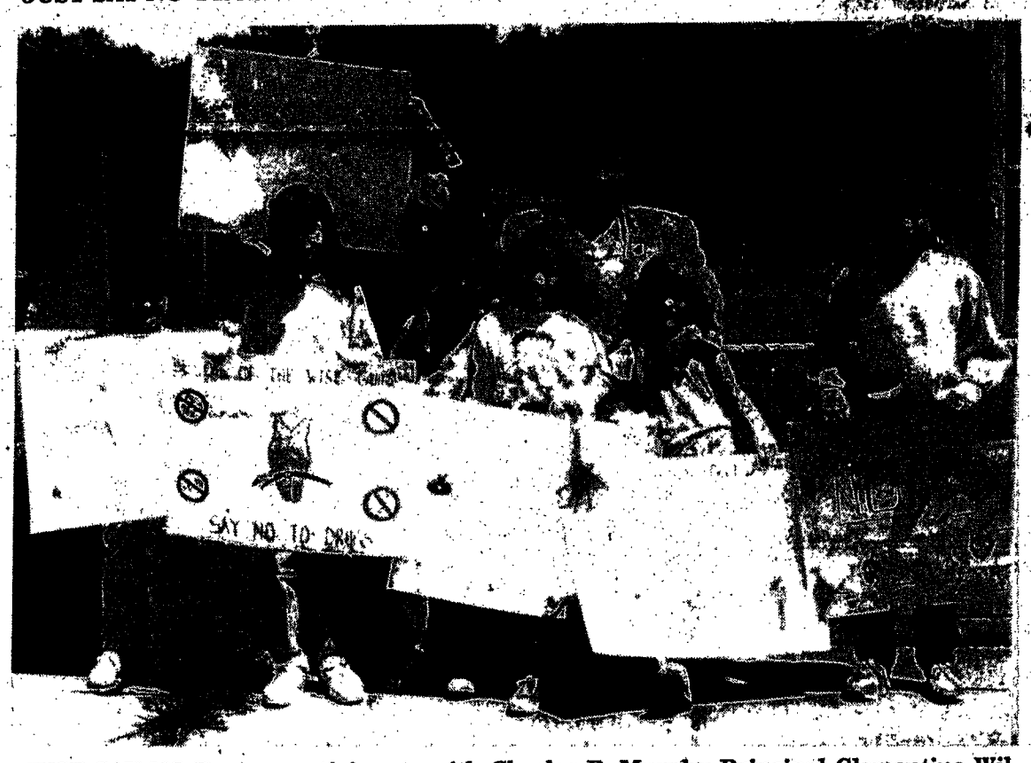

Winners of a jingle contest will record their jingle and should be heard on the local stations in the future.

Terry Randolph, superintendent of education, noted the programs against drugs evolved into a community-wide project. Parents reported positive enthusiasm from children who participated and a greater awareness of the problem of drug use.

Hancock County School System recruits teachers

Two years ago, a total of seven mathematics education graduates were available in Mississippi for teaching positions. Hancock County Schools hired one as a result of a recruiting trip, along with other graduates to fill requirements as specified under the Education Reform Act.

- On a recent recruiting trip for prospective teachers, James Pair, assistant superintendent of education for Hancock County Schools, represented one of 88 school districts competing for qualified teachers.

Several interesting trends were observed at the University of Mississippi, Mississippi State and the University of Southern Mississippi, Pair noted.

Although the quantity of qualified education graduates is lower, the quality of prospective teachers is very much in evidence, he said.

Reports from universities were consistent. Students are being screened more thoroughly before being admitted to the College of Education. A comprehensive test is now a requirement, which has resulted in about one-half the number of education majors as compared to 10 years ago. However, enrollment is up approximately seven percent over last year.

Among the 65 to 75 prospective teachers interviewed for positions in the Hancock County School System, most maintained B-average.

The Hancock County School System was favorably received because of higher salaries, fringe benefits and coastal location as compared with other systems across Mississippi.

Hancock County and Desoto County school systems are experiencing the fastest growing student populations in the state.

Teachers who once decided to go to Florida, Georgia or Texas are now opting to stay on the Coast.

"The school system of Hancock County is dedicated to maintaining the highest level of qualified teachers and administrators. We believe this will guarantee the further success of our students," said Terrell Randolph, superintendent of education.

Word Wise

Q. If both "temporal" and "temporary" mean "limited by time," what is the difference between the two? —S.T., Trenton, NJ

A. The two words both refer to time, but in different ways. Temporal means "limited by time in a worldly sense as opposed to spiritual" or "concerned with affairs of this world and not beyond." For example, "The priest has little concern for temporal matters." Temporary, on the other hand, means "impermanent" or "for the time being." For instance, "The would-be actor took a temporary job as a waiter to make money."

School districts seeking handicapped children

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland, and Hancock County school districts are participating in the statewide 'Child Find' program. This is an ongoing effort to identify, locate and evaluate children through the age 21 who are physically, mentally, communicatively or emotionally handicapped. Early identification of children in need of special education is most important to each child. Furthermore, this information gathered from contacts with parents and other agencies will be used to help determine present and future needs as progress is made toward the goal of providing a free appropriate public education to all handicapped children.

Information which could identify an individual child will be maintained by these agencies and will be provided to other agencies only in accord with the Family Rights and Privacy Act and EHA-B.

As a parent, you are guaranteed to the right to inspect any such information about your child and to challenge its accuracy. Access to this information is forbidden to any unauthorized person without informed consent.

Child Find Coordinator Dr. Kate Reynolds of Hancock County and Bay St. Louis/ Waveland School Districts implements child identification, location and evaluation of children ages birth through 21 who are handicapped, regardless of the severety of their handicaps and are in need of special education and related services.

Child Find works with the Department of Public Welfare, Department of Health, Department of Mental Health, local education agencies, ministers, physicians and other individuals to identify and locate children out of school and in school who may be in need of special education services.

Once a referral is made, it is the responsibility of the Child Find coordinator to insure that the Referral-to-Placement procedures are followed. The coordinators work with local survey committees at each school to implement this procedure. The following activities briefly describe the procedure.

Prior to evaluation, a parent information booklet, procedural safeguards, privacy rights, confidentiality procedure policies of the Bay St. Louis Hancock County school districts and the educational options and right of students are explained to the parent.

After parental consent for testing is obtained, a nondiscriminatory evaluation is conducted. Students are evaluated in all areas related to the suspected disability by qualified personnel.

When a student is ruled eligible for a special education program, parents must sign consent for placement; and an individual education plan is developed for the students. Parents, teachers and students participate in this process. All students receiving special education services are reassessed at least once every three years.

Programs that are available to these districts serve students who are educationally handicapped, multi-handicapped, physically handicapped, and learning disabled. Speech and language therapy is also available in these school districts. Cooperative efforts with other school districts provide services for deaf/hard-of-hearing, visually impaired, and emotionally handicapped students who need services not provided in the Bay St. Louis or Hancock County school districts.

It is the goal of the Bay St. Louis and Hancock County school districts to provide free appropriate education to all handicapped children birth through age 21 by the year 2000.

Anyone who is aware of a child who demonstrates characteristics of behavior indicative of a handicap, contact Dr. Kate Reynolds, Child Find Coordinator at 467-1021.

ETV Briefs

BALLET THEATRE

'A Ballet by any other name...'

Shakespeare's classic romantic tragedy will be performed by American Ballet Theatre when 'Live from Lincoln Center' presents 'Romeo and Juliet' at 8 p.m., Saturday, May 7, on Mississippi ETV.

Natalia Makarova and Kevin McKenzie are the star-crossed lovers in this three-act production choreographed by Sir Kenneth MacMillan.

HIGH SCHOOL LIFE

"All American High" is a frighteningly funny, real-life look at a middle class suburban California high school as seen through the eyes of an outsider—a foreign exchange student.

Through the observations of Rikki Rauhala, a student from Finland, "All American High" at 10 p.m., Monday, May 9, on Mississippi ETV, offers a new perspective on those timeless social rituals of one of America's most established institutions—high school.

The one-hour documentary follows Rikki from her bewildering first lonely day of school through her senior graduation. By then, however, she is no longer a confused outsider, but an "Americanized" student enjoying her new life.

"Grassroots" to feature Lonesome River Band

The Lonesome River Band, a well-known bluegrass band from Virginia, performs on the next edition of "Grassroots," Saturday, May 7, on PRM. "Grassroots" features bluegrass and acoustic music every Saturday from 6 to 9 p.m.

"Grassroots" host Mike Morgan airs a set of tunes from a concert performance by the Lonesome River Band at the Salem Opry House in Collins. PRM recorded the performance on Feb. 12, 1988.

The Lonesome River Band is known for its high-energy interpretations and tight harmonies. The group originated in 1983, and today Tim Austin, Jerry McMillan and others "couple the punch, timing and thrill of classic Flatt & Scruggs with hair-raising together vocals that please bluegrass diehards and new listeners alike," according to Arthur Menius of Country News magazine.

Public Radio in Mississippi, a division of Mississippi ETV, is broadcast statewide and on FM frequency 90.3, Biloxi.

LESS IS BETTER — For moist, delicious chocolate cakes, bake them at 25°F lower than other cakes.

POT SWEETENER — To sweeten your coffee maker, fill with water to the spout, add two tablespoons of baking soda and boil gently for 15 minutes. Rinse thoroughly and enjoy a good cup of coffee!

CONTINENTAL TOUCH — Try dropping a few pieces of chocolate chips into your after-dinner coffee for mocha flavor at a fraction of the cost of commercial brands.

GOOD NEWS — A few fresh celery leaves added to a pot of boiling shrimp will cut down on the fishy odor.

EASY GOIN' — If you first work screws into a bar of soap, you'll find they will screw into wood with the greatest of ease.

ON HOLD — To hold spaghetti for late arrivals — or to cook ahead of time — try this: plunge cooked spaghetti into bowl of cold water, covering completely. To reheat, bring another pan of water to a boil, add salt and cooking oil and gently lower drained spaghetti into boiling water. Turn off heat and let it stand for several minutes. Drain and serve immediately.

"A Prairie Home Companion" features old-fashioned concert

"A Prairie Home Companion" recreates a mythical brass band concert celebrating the completion of a train depot in turn-of-the-century Lake Wobegon on PRM Saturday, May 7, at 10 a.m. This episode will be rebroadcast Sunday May 8, at 2 p.m.

The musical selections are chosen from those listed on the faded program of the original celebration: marches and fanfares by Philip Brunelle's "Brunelle Brass Band" and novelty numbers such as "The Whistler and His Dog," in which band members demonstrate their whistling skills.

Soprano Elizabeth Comeaux Nelson and tenor Dan Dressen join the band to sing some airs from light opera, which were also on the original program, and a cat song, which probably was not.

Host Garrison Keillor's weekly update tells about springtime daydreamers in Lake Wobegon, including Lyle in biology class, Our Lady's congregation, and Pastor Ingqvist, who meets with a zealous salesman.

Public Radio in Mississippi, a division of Mississippi ETV, is broadcast statewide on FM frequencies: Biloxi, 90.3; Booneville, 89.5; Bude, 88.9; Greenwood, 90.9; Jackson, 91.3; Meridian, 88.1; Mississippi State, 89.9; and Oxford, 90.3.

Not pictured is Pamela Ladner. Shaw competed in the area of business calculations and Wicktom competed in computer applications for business. These students had placed at the District Level before competing at the state level. Visits to the Vicksburg Natural National Military Park, the old Capitol, the new Capitol, and the Natural Science Museum were included. The group was introduced to the Senate by Senator Gene Taylor. HNC received a certificate for donating $100 to St. Jude Children's Hospital and for becoming a bronze member of the FBLA Foundation. Accompanying the students was faculty advisor Patton of the Business Department. (HNC photo)
